

Model Witness

Comely Christine Drouadine, a clothes model, above, appeared at the gown-smuggling trial of Guerin de Font-Joyeuse, vice president of the couturier firm of Marcel Rochas, which was accused of bringing large quantities of expensive Parisian garments into the U. S. without paying duty by simply having models wear them in. Miss Drouadine admitted she had informed the government of the alleged dress-smuggling activities of her employer in order to "get even."

BASEBALL RESULTS

BOSTON, June 7.—(UP)—Johnny Allen, Cleveland Indians' ace right-hander, walked from the mound at start of the second inning in the game with the Boston Red Sox today. Manager Oscar Vitt fined him $250 for quitting the game.

Reports were that Allen and the umpire-in-chief had had a dispute over a slip in Allen's undershirt. Such slits are prohibited by the rules. The flapping garment interferes with the batter's vision.

FEAR MISSING MEN DROWNED
ALAMEDA, Calif., June 7.—(UP)—Three Oakland men were missing and feared drowned in San Francisco bay off Bayfarm Island today.

They were Orris Hilario, A. Alseres and N. Bettencourt. They went fishing at 3 p. m. yesterday and failed to return last night. This morning their boat was found floating upside down.

Valencia shipments out of Orange county, through the Orange County Fruit Exchange, got a running start for the 1938 season, a total of 1063 cars being sent to local and outside markets up to June 1, as compared to 859 cars shipped by that date last year, exchange officials announced today.

The May shipments amounted to 882 carloads, of which 62 cars were sold within the state and 820 cars moved to export and domestic markets outside the state. Prior to May 1, only 181 cars had been shipped.

NEW LABOR LAW PROPOSED

8000 Slain In Air Raids

SLAUGHTER CONTINUED

CANTON, June 7.—(UP)—(By Telephone to Hong Kong)—The Japanese threat to intensify their air bombardments of Canton was fulfilled today with three new raids which raised the toll for 11 days to approximately 8,000 killed and wounded.

While air raid alarms screamed their warnings, the Japanese airplanes this morning, this afternoon and again tonight dropped bombs on crowded residential districts, commercial centers and military objectives. Many sections were reduced to ruins.

The third raid of the day began at 9 p. m. Ten bombers were sighted over the Bocca Tigris forts in the bright moonlight. They swept in over the city and bombed the power plant. It was put out of action again. Other bombs demolished the British capitalized water works, which was under construction.

Today's bombings brought to 11 the number of raids on Canton in the same number of days. The new raids were coincident with an announcement by a Japanese spokesman in Shanghai that the Japanese would continue to bomb Canton "with even greater vigor."

The day's first raiders appeared early.

Planes Return
Four bombers roared over the populous residential districts from 3 a. m. to 7 a. m., and dropped their cargoes. At 2 p. m. a large squadron returned and showered bombs on the Wongsha station area, in the southwestern suburbs near the Shamen district inhabited by foreigners. The Wongsha station has been the clearing house of munitions and war equipment en route north to Hankow, where the Chinese intend to make a determined fight.

U. S. SEEKS WAY TO END BOMBINGS
WASHINGTON, June 7.—(UP)—State department officials today studied possible ways of bringing concerted international pressure against Japan and Nationalist Spain for repeated aerial bombings of civilian areas.

They had before them specifically a proposal made orally by the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, that the United States join Great Britain, Norway, Sweden and possibly other countries in the appointment of a joint commission to investigate the bombings, ascertain their nature and the character of the places bombed, and possibly to recommend steps to prevent repetition.

Answer—More Bombs
The United States already has publicly voiced its horror of such attacks. The British and French governments have formally protested to both the Japanese and the Spanish Nationalist governments. The answer in each case has been more bombings.

State department officials, meanwhile, awaited reports from Canton on whether any Americans were killed there.

Nothing had been heard from United States Consul General Irving N. Linnell.

FALL PROVES FATAL
SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 7.—(UP)—Roy enlisted man, jumped or fell to his death from the 150-foot span of the Cabrillo "suicide" bridge in Balboa Park here today.

Police said there was no definite indication whether the sailor—34th person to die in a drop from the span—had sought to end his own life or had been killed accidentally.

Valencia shipments out of Orange county, through the Orange County Fruit Exchange, got a running start for the 1938 season, a total of 1063 cars being sent to local and outside markets up to June 1, as compared to 859 cars shipped by that date last year, exchange officials announced today.

Lemons Shipped
Lemon shipments from the district for the month of May amounted to 120 cars, which brings the total shipments to date of this variety to 395 carloads. The total California Fruit Growers Exchange storage as of May 23 shows a decrease of 5 percent as compared with the storage of May 15. The supplies in storage are 30 percent greater than the average storage on June 1 for the past five years. Estimated picks for June, while somewhat below those of May, are

Gillette Is Iowa Choice

DES MOINES, Ia., June 7.—(UP)—Sen. Guy M. Gillette, who lost favor with the New Deal for opposing President Roosevelt's Supreme Court reorganization bill, today won renomination to the United States senate in the Iowa primary by a wide margin.

His opponent, Rep. Otha D. Wearin, who had been endorsed by Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator, and James Roosevelt, son of the president, conceded defeat early today on the basis of incomplete returns.

Two to One
The vote in 1938 precincts out of 2,447 was:
Gillette, 68,661.
Wearin, 36,467.

The Republicans nominated for the U. S. Senate Lester J. Dickinson, opponent of "everything New Dealish."

He defeated Rep. Lloyd Thurston considered one of the more liberal members of the G. O. P. congressional delegation.

Dickinson Leads
Unofficial returns from 1938 precincts gave:
Dickinson, 123,743.
Thurston, 89,732.

Gillette's total, with more than half the precincts reported, was

FRANCE MOVES TO HALT "INVASIONS"

PARIS, June 7.—(UP)—France now regards the invasion of airplanes from Spain as a military, not a diplomatic problem and the solution has been left with the general staff, a government spokesman said today.

"The government regards as useless further protests to authorities of either side in the Spanish civil war," the spokesman said, "as there is no hope of practical results to avoid further violation of the French frontier."

Make Ultimatum
"Hereafter it is a military, not a diplomatic problem. The solution depends on the general staff which has taken all necessary dispositions."

"The government is calmly determined not to tolerate new violations."

"The presence of Premier Edouard Daladier on the frontier indicated the importance which France attaches to these violations."

As this statement was made, Premier Daladier—who is also war minister—had just completed an inspection of the frontier area bombed by airplanes from Spain Sunday and Monday.

4000 Acres Hit By Flood Waters

STOCKTON, Cal., June 7.—(UP)—The San Joaquin river, running three feet above flood stage, broke through its west bank at the Paradise Cut today and inundated 4,000 acres of farm lands, forcing ten families to evacuate their homes.

Flood waters covered the main San Francisco-Fresno highway No. 5 at Mossdale, nine miles south of Stockton, halting traffic. Automobiles and trucks bound for the San Joaquin Valley were re-routed west.

Fed by a huge runoff of fast-melting snow in the mountains, the river cut a 150-foot break in the bank when it reached a crest of 20.4 feet. Flood stage is 17 feet.

3 Army Fliers Die In Crashes

RANDOLPH FIELD, Tex., June 7.—(UP)—Three army fliers were killed and one was critically injured today in two airplane crashes. The accidents occurred within a 20-minute period.

The dead were Second Lieut. Nathan H. Coddington, 28, of Los Angeles, Calif.; Second Lieut. Arthur M. Koppeler, 26, of Houston, Tex.; and Flying Cadet William H. Coney, 25, of Washington, D. C.

VOTE AGAINST EXHIBIT
VISALIA, Cal., June 7.—(UP)—The Tulare county board of supervisors today was on record opposing participation in a San Joaquin Valley exhibit at the 1939 San Francisco Golden Gate International Exposition.

Although representatives of county farm organizations and business and civic groups expressed no objection to the project, the supervisors voted down 3 to 2 a motion of Supervisor Jay Brown to appropriate $8500 for the exhibit.

This cat found herself up a pole after eluding a pursuing dog—and then found that she couldn't get down. Hence this unusual rescue scene in which an agile Humane Society employee is pictured just before he slipped a loop around the body of the frightened feline and lowered her to safety.

$100,000 IN FLOOD CLAIMS FILED HERE

Santa Ana today faced claims for damages which total approximately $100,000 as result of the March 3 flood which washed over lands adjacent to the Santa Ana boulevard bridge.

The claims, filed with city council last night, were made by owners of the damaged property. They were ordered placed before the committee of council which now has under consideration, other claims and recommendations.

Scores of persons have entered official protest with the council against construction of a piling bridge, charging that the piling, during flood stages, stops debris and forces the water onto surrounding territory. An arch bridge would permit the debris to wash down the river, they argue.

Claims Listed
Claims last night included the following: C. W. and Frances W. Todd, $38,598.25; W. M. and Eva Todd, $13,400; E. W. Bolinger, $10,600; Georgia Blood, $4,190; Mary M. Parker, Ansie Jean MacPheter, Wilbur MacDonald Brown, Janet May Reeder, Frederick Rush Brown, sr., Louie Lockwood Brown, Marie Lucille Pinkham and Raymond Runkle Brown, $8,280.

H. J. Hinrichs and Lillian Hinrichs, Henry J. Sievers and Fern Sievers, $2,600; J. E. and Mary M. Parker, $10,500; Maria Schlueter, $1,500, and Alfred Behneman and wife, $2,000.

Plane Makes Forced Landing

It doesn't mean more than a brisk walk or, at most, a good hike, when you run out of gasoline while driving your car but when you're airplane—that's something else again!

That's what H. Fromm, Alhambra airplane pilot, thinks, anyhow. On a sky cruise over this area about 4:15 P. M. yesterday, Fromm was forced to land when his gasoline supply went "pfft." He landed at Irvine, half a mile north of the reservoir, above Corona Del Mar and 200 yards west of the South Main street extension.

Fromm was flying with James Rounsfell and Carlton Nicholson, both of Alhambra, according to Deputy Sheriff A. W. Fullerton and A. W. Anderson, who investigated the report that a strange airplane had landed. Obtaining a new supply of fuel, the trio took off and disappeared. The ship, a four-seat Stinson, was registered to A. J. Dewey, jr. and Harold Foote, Alhambra.

ESCAPE DEATH

ALTURA, Calif., June 7.—(UP)—A plane piloted by Al Boone and Harry Ayres, San Francisco, tangled in telephone wires during a takeoff from the Altura airport and crashed to the ground today. Boone and Ayres were not injured. The plane was badly damaged.

Finley, West Feud Flares

Cards were slapped loudly on the table at today's meeting of the county supervisors, as Supervisor N. E. West accused Supervisor Steele Finley of gumming up the welfare department and Finley accused West of political phagocytism with the county road department, to get jobs for West's friends.

But no trump cards were played in the matter of firing Welfare Director Jack Snow, which was the cause of the Finley-West rumpus, because Supervisor John Mitchell, who holds the balance of power in the dispute, was not ready to make up his mind. So Snow remained on his job for the moment at least.

Asks More Time
Mitchell voted against Snow last Friday, in supporting the board's action overriding Snow's dismissal of Assistant Director Belle J. Spangler and Case Worker Mary Lyons. But the Garden Grove supervisor today asked more time in which to study the proposal by Finley that Snow's office be declared vacant.

Finley, himself reported to be facing an incipient recall move, which courthouse grapevine rumor has laid at the door of friends of Snow and Supervisor West, took

RANSOM NOTE NEW KIDNAP CASE CLUE

PRINCETON, Fla., June 7.—(UP)—A five dollar bill, one of the notes included in the $10,000 ransom paid to kidnaped Jimmy Cash, was passed at a filling station near Jacksonville, Fla., the Miami Daily News said today in a copyright story.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, awaiting appearance of the ransom bills to give them their first major lead toward solution of the kidnapping, refused either to confirm or deny the report the bill had been passed.

Seek Pair
The News said the bill was offered in payment for gasoline by two men, believed to be Tennessee policemen returning home from a filling station at Miami. The filling station attendant recognized the serial number on the bill, accepted it and reported it to the FBI, the newspaper said.

The News said the men were believed to have been overtaken and stopped by G-men near Tallahassee, but whether they were detained was not known.

Youth Released
Walter Fisher, 20-year-old Princeton newspaper carrier, who was said to have been delivering papers in the vicinity where James H. Cash, sr., paid the $10,000 ransom last Tuesday, was reported released after having been questioned by G-men.

A report from Winter Haven, Fla., said Fisher was attending a Methodist Sunday school conference there.

Shriners "Take Over" Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, June 7.—(UP)—Fifty thousand Shriners took over Los Angeles today, halting traffic with dozens of wandering parades, walking camels down the Broadway sidewalks, and going fishing under a fire hose in City Hall Square.

The 64th annual session of the Imperial Council, Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, opened in Memorial Coliseum. The meeting will end Thursday night with an electrical pageant staged by the Hollywood motion picture studios, each one lending four stars for the evening to make up for barring their gates to the visitors. Harold Lloyd, Chief Rabbi of Al Malakiah Temple, Los Angeles, is arranging the movie pageant.

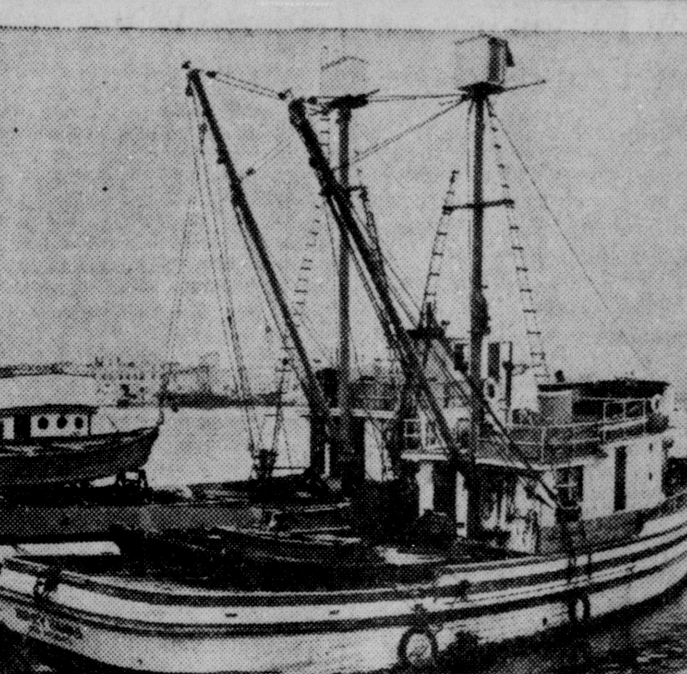

Seeks Support Of Oil Measure

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(UP)—Capt. H. A. Stuart, director of naval petroleum reserves, today asked the house naval affairs committee to act favorably on a measure designed to permit the navy to consolidate its reserves in California oil fields.

The measure, already approved by the senate, would permit the navy to exchange its scattered oil lands in producing fields for lands held by private companies in fields where most of the land is owned by the navy and the navy wishes to keep the lands out of production.

Under present conditions, Stuart explained, private companies are operating wells on some of the land the navy is forced to drill offset wells to protect its interest.

U. S. Seizes Alien Fishing Boats

Pushing its drive to rid Pacific Coast waters of foreign-owned fishing craft, the U. S. government is seizing vessels whose Japanese ownership, the government charges, is concealed by dummy American registry. First boat seized was the Nancy Hanks, shown above. Indicted on charges that they encouraged and aided Japanese in making false affidavits and enrolling foreign-owned boats under American registry were Gilbert Van Camp, shown at right in top photo, president of the Van Camp Sea Food Company, four other company officers and an alien Japanese. Montgomery Phister, left in top photo, vice president of the company, and Roy P. Harper, center, a director, were indicted along with Van Camp.

SOLONS APPROVE DEFICIENCY BILL; NAVY PROGRAM STARTED

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(UP)—The House appropriations committee, after last minute revisions, today favorably reported a $274,233,229 final deficiency bill, carrying funds to start building the greatest war fleet in American history.

The bill, which will go to the house for immediate action and which may be sent to the Senate by Thursday, provides approximately $41,000,000 for naval purposes to finance beginning of naval building authorized by the $1,157,000,000 naval expansion measure previously approved by Congress.

The committee, however, made last minute revisions which eliminated $24,654,215 recommended by the administration to begin construction of a dirigible and four warships.

As reported, funds are provided in the measure to lay the keels of 19 warships and approximately $15,000,000 to expand and provide new facilities at navy yards to enable rapid effectuation of the program to increase the navy's fighting strength by 20 per cent.

Immediately before reporting the bill, the committee added $540,000 for a coast guard station at Elizabeth City, N. C., $600,000 for a station at San Francisco and $540,000 for airplanes for both stations.

Fete Threatened By Labor Fight

PORTLAND, Ore., June 7.—(UP)—Workers in Portland's largest hotels and restaurants voted "by a large majority" to strike if their joint executive board is unable to reach agreement with operators 1938 wage hour contracts, union leaders announced here today.

Officials of the culinary and hotel workers' union, American Federation of Labor affiliate, indicated they might time walkout action to coincide with the opening of the annual rose festival show Wednesday.

A strike at that time would seriously affect the handling of the thousands of visitors expected to attend the festival.

Emergency Group Wins Approval

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(UP)—The White House announced today that President Roosevelt had signed an executive order extending the life of the National Emergency Council to June 30, 1939.

The council, headed by Lowell Mellett, former Washington editor, is the agency charged with the task of coordinating emergency activities of the government.

WOULD BAR 'SIT-DOWNS'

Aimed as a regulatory measure throughout California for picketing, boycotting, coercion, sit-down strikes and other activities arising from labor disputes, "a proposed initiative statute for the state of California" today was announced to The Register as the direct outcome of a conference yesterday of the state's most influential agricultural leaders and a California Citizens' committee.

Initiative petitions to place this act on the ballot at the November election will be in circulation as soon as Attorney General U. S. Webb gives the proposed act a formal title.

Author Quoted
This was the statement contained in the foreword to the complete draft, a copy of which was submitted to The Register. Byron C. Hanna, president of the Southern Californians, Inc., is author of the foreword.

Agricultural leaders and members of the citizens' committee, who presented one of the first copies of the draft to The Register, pointed out that 186,000 signatures were required on the initiative on the ballot. They added that the petitions soon will be placed in statewide circulation.

Lists Aims
The front cover of the draft includes the preliminary outline of the proposed statute. It says: "Proposed initiative statute for the state of California. 1.—Regulates: Picketing; boycotts. 2.—Prohibits: Coercion and intimidation; sit down strikes; interference with lawful use of streets, highways, docks and wharves."

Covering an extremely wide scope in the field of agriculture, labor and industry, the draft contains 26 fully-described sections, paving the way for an unprecedented relationship between employer and employee, either in the state or nation.

Explains Purpose
A good part of the intent of the draft is explained in the foreword, written by Hanna. It says in part: "On June 2, a group of agriculturists, led by Bert Swartz of Woodland, Calif., filed in the office of the attorney general for the purpose of obtaining a title, a proposed initiative measure relating to the activities of labor organizations."

"I have carefully studied and considered this measure and am convinced that it is thoroughly sound as a matter of law and that its enactment would be exceedingly beneficial. In brief, it regulates picketing on a statewide basis; regulates boycotts so as to eliminate the 'hot cargo' practice; prohibits the exercise of coercion or intimidation by labor organizations; provides for the free use of public streets, highways, docks, wharves and other public places by all persons, irrespective of affiliation or non-affiliation with any labor organization."

U. S. Denies Plea for State Labor

FRESNO, Cal., June 7.—(UP)—Efforts of various Fresno civic and labor groups to restrict labor on the Friant dam, southern unit of the Central Valley project, to local or state residents, failed today.

Federal Reclamation Commissioner John R. Page, speaking for Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes, informed Mayor Frank A. Homan that in all construction contracts, standard forms of contracts are used, and no mention of labor restrictions is included in the contract.

Page added that it would be impossible to insert any such clause in the construction contract that would limit labor on the project to Californians.

FDR CALLS FOR ALLOTMENTS OF PWA FUNDS; LOBBYISTS HIT

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today directed the Public Works Administration to prepare allotments for projects costing an estimated $600,000,000 immediately upon passage and signature of the recovery bill.

These projects, the PWA said, should result in heavy orders for basic construction materials and provide immediate employment for men on the projects, in factories, railroads, mills, mines and forests.

It was estimated the projects will create 1,750,000 man-months of direct employment and 2,341,000 man-months of indirect employment.

Releases Huge Sums
About $165,000,000 will be released in payrolls at the project sites, it was estimated.

Meanwhile the PWA warned municipalities that the hiring of lobbyists to obtain federal funds for public works will endanger the communities' "entire allotments."

The warning was issued by as-

the step today to "mop up" his advantage over Snow in the Spangler case, by moving to oust Snow himself.

Smith Backs Finley
Chairman Willard Smith, who made the suggestion at the last meeting that Snow should be relieved of his duty, was ready to back Finley's motion today. He said that he didn't agree with Finley that the welfare department had been efficient, but he blamed that lack of efficiency on Snow's management, or lack of management.

But no second to Finley's motion was forthcoming. Mitchell asked more time to investigate the matter.

Raps Curry
Supervisor Harry D. Riley said he was not in favor of replacing Snow, whom he considered efficient. Riley then took a fling at former Welfare Director Byron Curry, saying that the present welfare administration is highly regarded in the third district, which was something that couldn't be said of the former administration. If there was one thing the present board could be commended for, it was changing welfare directors, said Riley.

Although Curry, said Riley, "is my friend—I hope," and Riley regards him as a capable business man, Curry was not constituted to deal properly with unfortunate people, Riley declared.

Supports Snow
After this digression, Riley returned to the subject and said he would support Snow, and that Snow's trouble was lack of cooperation from the board. At Chairman Smith's inquiry for particulars, Riley said he meant Finley, as committee.

West then made the remarks that caused Finley's flare-up, saying it was a "new one on him" that the director of a department should have to ask the board about discharging employees.

"And yet," said Finley, "I have the names of 21 employees of the road department, all from the fifth district, who are slated to be discharged."

Charges Hurdled
"Well," said West, "I'm not kicking about that. Let the head of the department handle that business."

Said Finley: "But I understand that you are the one who has slated them to be fired."

"You understand no such thing," snapped West quickly.

"I beg your pardon, but I do understand just that," retorted Finley angrily. "And my reputation for veracity is just as good as yours."

"You haven't a shred of truth to support any such statement. If you have any evidence, let's have it," West demanded.

The argument then trailed off.

Among various titles given to several of the 26 sections of the proposed act, are: "Unlawful to carry banner for purposes stated therein; unlawful to conspire to boycott; when and to what extent boycott permissible; refusal of employee to handle goods just cause for dismissal; act does not prevent voluntary strike; regulation of injunction proceedings; and proceedings for contempt."

The Register was told that "immediately following the granting of a title for the proposal by the attorney general, word of the proposition double-wide publicity as one of the most detailed and comprehensive moves to wipe out strained relationships between labor and capital as ever drafted in the country."

greater than the vote polled by his four opponents.

There was no positive assurance that Mr. Roosevelt wanted Gillette defeated. Wearin claimed to be the "Roosevelt-New Deal" candidate, but Gillette did not concede him that position. Hence the Democratic voters could not be certain that a vote for Wearin was a vote of endorsement to Mr. Roosevelt.

Congressmen Returned
The combined vote of the other three Democratic candidates for the Senate was insignificant, and first indications were that the winner of the Gillette-Wearin race would get the necessary 35 per cent nominating vote. Unless the winner receives 35 per cent, the nomination goes over to the state convention.

Incumbent congressmen were leading in all cases where they had opposition.

Neither Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel, Democratic candidate for re-nomination, nor George A. Wilson, his Republican opponent, was opposed.

FARLEY SENDS CONGRATULATIONS

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(UP)—Chairman James A. Farley of the Democratic National committee today sent congratulations to Sen. Guy M. Gillette, victor in yesterday's Iowa primaries.

Farley's action followed a White House conference with President Roosevelt but the Democratic chairman said that he did not discuss the Iowa political situation with the President.

Republicans jubilantly cited the primary returns as a rebuff to "White House interference" in state politics as an omen of G. O. P. victory in November's Congressional elections. Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins' entry into Iowa politics—allegedly supported by a New Deal plan to purge the party of bolting Democrats—ended in defeat of Rep. Otha D. Wearin by Senator Gillette, Gillette, whose New Deal record is good, had opposed judiciary reorganization.

ing inspecting the now formidable anti-aircraft batteries mounted along the frontier and then said in a statement at Perpignan:

"The border population can count on my vigilant solicitude. We have taken the necessary steps to prevent a repetition of bombing by foreign airplanes whatever their origin."

(It was noted first that the government spokesman emphasized the importance of Daladier's presence on the frontier and secondly that Daladier referred to "foreign airplanes whatever their origin." Border reports, unconfirmed, appeared to have taken it for granted that the airplanes came from the Nationalist side. The Nationalists have many Italian and German airplanes. Reports, also unconfirmed, circulated along the frontier that some bombs dropped by the invading airplanes might have been of Italian origin.)

Holds Conference
After making his statement at Perpignan, Daladier conferred with the commanding officer of the 24th Senegalese regiment there and the commander of the frontier anti-aircraft batteries. He went on to Collioure to inspect coastal batteries.

Fifteen new anti-aircraft guns were dispatched to the frontier today to fight off any foreign airplanes which might seek to raid France again. The guns were manned by a special infantry force. All gunners along the frontier, and air force crews, had orders to shoot down invading planes.

Council Outlines Gas Tax Program

City council last night informally gave orders for disposition of $38,700 which the city expects to receive next year as part of her share of state gasoline tax funds used in street improvements.

It was decided that $6,000 will be used on Flower street, $7,000 on South Broadway, $6,000 for maintenance of streets and the remainder on North Broadway beyond Tenth street, "as far north as the amount of money will permit."

TUSCON, ARIZ., June 7.—(UP)—J. C. Morris, Jr., 26, of Vidalia, Ga., who recovered his memory after wandering across the United States, was held in jail here today on a charge of forgetting to pay his hotel bill.

Youth Admits Slaying Father

STOCKTON, Calif., June 7.—

(UP)—Elsworth Prouty, 18, was held here today on a charge of having shot and killed his father after a dispute that started in the watermelon patch on their Amador county ranch late yesterday.

"Father was never one to give an order and then let it go," the red faced ranch youth explained, "he just nagged and nagged and nagged."

The body of the father, William Prouty, 53, was found on a bed in the ranch house as the youth said it would be when he surrendered voluntarily to Sheriff George Lucot. The father was shot four times although the first shot was sufficient to cause death, the sheriff said.

Solons Approve Deficiency Bill

House conferees to a $212,000,000 appropriation for farm parity payments raised a new obstacle to plans to adjourn Congress by Saturday.

Although President Roosevelt's $3,723,000,000 recovery bill, carrying the farm parity amendment, joined the wages and hours bill and other important legislation in conference committee, no action can be taken to reconcile the House and Senate versions before Thursday.

Warns Of Trouble
The House group was tied up with consideration of a $272,000,000 deficiency bill today.

Rep. Clinton A. Woodrum, D., Va., one of the House recovery bill conferees, warned of trouble for the farm appropriation. In a statement of opposition he said that Mr. Roosevelt had not requested the money and believes it should not be voted without processing taxes to finance it.

Raps WPA Plans
Senate elimination of the "Woodrum amendment" requiring the Works Progress Administration to apportion its $1,425,000,000 to last until March 1, 1939, also was censured by Woodrum, conferees reported. The Senate in voting to lift the restriction, was told that such action might necessitate a special session this fall in case emergency relief conditions throw the apportionment out of balance.

House leaders, however, privately predicted approval of farm payments. They did not regard the recovery bill as likely to upset adjournment plans as the wages and hours measure.

SOUTHERNERS WIN IN WAGES, HOURS FIGHT

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(UP)

—Senate conferees on the wage-hour bill today agreed to support demands of their southern colleagues after a 30 cent an hour minimum is reached.

Whether house conferees would yield in the face of filibuster threats by the southern group was uncertain.

The Senate conference group agreed to submit the following wage provisions demanded by the southern bloc:

Establish Minimum

1.—Establishment of a flat 25 cents an hour wage minimum.

2.—An increase of five cents an hour during the second year of the act.

3.—Establishment of advisory boards in each industry to make recommendations for wage standards above the 30 cent minimum, with an administrator to pass upon the recommendations.

4.—No time limit under which industries must reach the goal of 40 cents an hour established in the bill, permitting them to accomplish that standard as soon as "economically feasible."

Seek Support
The Senate conferees voted 4 to 3 to support the southern program. The southern bloc was hopeful that House conferees would swing to their program, pointing out that while the time of attaining a 40 cent minimum was left indefinite the 30 cent minimum was set flatly, without geographical or other differentials, after the act had been in operation a year.

It is estimated that of all the cars sold during 1937 in the United States 65 per cent were six-cylinder cars.

FDR Calls For PWA Allotments strict supervisor, with a request for a "frank opinion" of the proposal.

In his reply, Gray said such a contract "has long been viewed with particular disfavor by the PWA." He pointed out a provision in contracts between PWA and communities which prohibits the payment of bonuses or commissions for the purpose of obtaining approval of federal funds.

"A violation of this provision would certainly be considered a material breach of the agreement and might well result in a recession of the allotment," Gray said.

CITY DECLINES TO SELL LOT ON MAIN

The city doesn't want to sell its property at the northeast corner of Twentieth and Main streets because it may find a use for it. That was decided by city council last night when bids for the purchase were rejected.

The property, opposite the Charles W. Bowers city-owned museum, and formerly a part of the Bowers estate donated to the city, fronts 100 feet on Main, 125 feet on Twentieth. Council recently called for bids on sale of the property. Dr. John P. Davis bid $6215 and Dr. Harvey C. Maxwell, $6375.

Last night A. W. Rutan, attorney for the firm of Rutan, Mize and Kroese, submitted a letter in which he enclosed a sealed bid. The letter stated that the bid was "in excess of $6500." But the council didn't even open the Rutan bid. "The bids are too low and anyhow, we don't want to sell," was the consensus of the council.

HEAD SELECTED AS DOCKWEILER LEADER

Following the meeting last night at College Hall, Santa Ana Junior college, at which John F. Dockweiler, Democratic gubernatorial candidate was speaker of the evening, Curtis Burrow, president of the Young Democrats of Santa Ana club, called a meeting of all supporters of William Gibbs McAdoo in the coming senatorial election. By unanimous vote of the group, Horace C. Head was chosen as Orange county campaign manager for Senator McAdoo, to be assisted by Mrs. Mae B. Geeting.

In his acceptance of the position, Head said, "I feel it is a privilege and a pleasure to assist in the campaign of William Gibbs McAdoo for United States senator. 'My personal knowledge of the man and his qualifications have convinced me that he is most ably fitted to render splendid service to the state in Washington,' Head said.

"I do, however, want it to be understood that I am acting in the capacity of a private citizen and not as chairman of the Orange County Assembly of Democrats. The by-laws of that organization expressly forbid any member to favor any pre-primary candidate for any office as a member of the organization."

Protest Hearing Notice Given

Notices of a public protest hearing last night were ordered posted on the west side of Lowell street between Eighth and 10th streets where D. R. Dickson wishes to construct a two-family dwelling.

City council ordered the posting upon recommendation of the city planning commission. The hearing will be held at next meeting, June 20, 7:30 p. m. If no protests are registered, Dickson's request for necessary change of zone from residential to two-family dwelling zone will be made.

Stresses Training
Stressing his political training in Washington as a Congressman during the last six years, Dockweiler declared that his service on important Congressional committees, including the appropriations committee, would enable him to give California a special service in Washington that no other candidate could give.

State Kindergarten
Among other efforts promised by Dockweiler was the establishment of a state-wide kindergarten conducted through the state school system, and control of paroled and pardoned criminals, especially those convicted of sex crimes.

Horace C. Head, chairman of the assembly, presided and introduced Supervisor Harry D. Riley, who made a brief report of his recent trip to Washington, D. C. Carl Oppenheimer, Los Angeles accountant, and candidate for state controller, was also introduced and made a brief campaign speech.

Mrs. Mae B. Geeting, secretary of the assembly, read the minutes of the last board of directors meeting.

master Joseph Chargin, Jr., insists something must be done about the problem of mail carriers being bitten by dogs, as the danger is on the increase. In 10 years 23 local carrier were bitten. In 1936 and 1937 there were 10 cases, five each year. One carrier has been bitten six times.

MISS MARGARET WOLF, local director, will head the camp staff at Ro-Ki-Li this year for Santa Ana Girl Scouts. It was announced today. She will be assisted by Miss Cora Holter, R. N. as camp nurse; Miss Eufane Carr, craft counselor; Miss Hazel Bergee, craft counselor; Mrs. Golden Weston, unit leader; Miss Jane Crawford, unit leader; Miss Marion Hawk, unit leader; Miss Martha Tutthill, swimming counselor; Miss Helen Dillard, Archery and music, and Miss Elizabeth McLeod, pioneering counselor.

There will be one adult to each seven girls in camp. This allows for adequate supervision of the Girl Scout Camping activities.

Variation of Activities

The activities planned for this year are varied and interesting. Added to the fun of simple outdoor living will be horseback riding, swimming, archery, hiking, exploring, handicraft, pottery, and other fascinating and joyful pursuits.

There will be an out of camp trip for the older and more experienced campers.

Special Sunday Schedule

The girls are to be divided into three units with a trained leader in each unit. Planning of the camp activities is done through the Unit Court of Honor and is coordinated through the Camp Council.

Sundays in camp differ from other days. Both Sundays in the 1938 session are to be Camp Ro-Ki-Li "At Homes" from 2 until 4 p. m. for camp visitors. Sometime during the day, a service of inspiration called "Scouts' Own" is held in camp. The girls plan and participate in this service. Camp will open June 21 and close July 5.

The hand, as referred to in measuring horses, is four inches.

When Pop was 21 . . .

Pop got married.

Pop had children.

Pop took the night shift because it meant $2 more a week.

And Pop never took a vacation.

When I wanted an Ingersoll Yankee Pop bought it. (I didn't know until years later he had to pass up lunch for a week to get it.)

When I cried because I never had a sled Pop made me one. (He was the handiest guy you ever saw.)

When I had a chance to get a job out of town, Pop said, "Take it—looks like a fine break." Seems now I can remember the tears in his eyes when we shook hands good-bye.

Pop's 61 now.

His step is still firm. And he's still on the old job.

It's a good six months since I've seen Pop. (Home is only 4 hours away.) My sister writes, "You should visit home more often. But don't tell Pop I suggested it."

He wouldn't like it that way."

Good old Pop.

I can see him leaning over the neighbor's fence. Holding up the brief, hurried letter I wrote a month ago. Bragging about his son in the Big City. Beaming until he's like to bust.

Gosh, for me there ought to be a Father's Day every day of the year!

"AIDA" TO HAVE POETIC SETTING

According to Amelio Colantoni, president and producer of the La Scala Opera company which is presenting Verdi's famous opera "Aida" at the Pasadena Rose Bowl, Saturday evening, June 25, Pasadena possesses the proper poetic surroundings to give this presentation the same beautiful effects that the original open air performance had at the foot of the Pyramids in Egypt in 1912.

With the Pyramid performance as a standard, Colantoni plans to surpass it. Special scenery is being designed and painted. A special stage is being erected, new lighting effects are being perfected and every means known to science for developing the acoustic qualities of the Rose Bowl are being brought into play.

Claim Iron Play To Decide U. S. Open

Durable Hartnett Is Iron Man Too

There's little rest for the Cubs when Gabby opens up.

BY JERRY BRONFIELD
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

CHICAGO—"Peace, it's wonderful," sighs Leo the Loud, otherwise known as Gabby—last name Hartnett.

"Do you know," he beams, "that I haven't worked since 1921? Since that day, in fact, when it was so cold that I froze my ears going down to the mill at 5 in the morning. It was right then and there that I decided I'd never work again as long as I lived."

This from a gent who at 37 is the oldest regular in the major leagues. A gent who has been with the Chicago Cubs every season since 1922, a gent who, if he works 100 games this year, will become the first receiver in baseball history to catch more than 100 games a season for 13 years.

There's someone besides Lou Gehrig who deserves an Iron Man label in the majors.

And Charles Leo Hartnett of the Florida face and boisterous manner says he quit working 18 years ago. It is to laugh! Or maybe the Gabby One doesn't consider his diamond activities sordid enough to call it "work."

The ear-freezing episode to which he refers happened in Millville, Mass., his home town. As a youth he worked in a mill, where the hours were long—and tough. Young Leo was looking for an opportunity to get out of the "steel" business and when a 20-below temperature nipped his ears so painfully that was the last straw.

MAKES DEBUT IN EASTERN LEAGUE

That summer he sought a try-out with Worcester of the Eastern league . . . and got it and made good. In fact, made good to the extent of attracting scouts of the Chicago Cubs, who signed the youngster and shipped him westward to spring training camp at Catalina Island.

Bill Killifer managed the 1922 edition of the Bruins, and he was looking for a young catcher in the worst way. He thought he had one in a recruit named McMillin, but two weeks after camp had opened he discovered how much he was in error.

The stable of C. M. Wilcock Pasadena sportsman, was bedded down. In this outfit were Torlee, Wingspread, Bragger Heroique, Lucubelle, Step By, Scotch Guard, Arjac, Heel Plates and five 2-year-olds.

Thursday's Games

7:30—Elks vs. Treesweet; 8:30—Elite vs. Alliance Mutual Life.

Elite's International Trucks held a half-game lead in the Santa Ana City league today following a 9-5 victory over M. E. South's churchmen last night at the Municipal Bowl.

Montgomery Ward's 1937 champions blasted Alliance Mutual Life out of a possible tie for the leadership in the second game, 5-1.

The Elite nine got to Roy Stout, M. E. South gunner, for only five blows, but six errors by the Mustangs cost them any chance they had for victory. Armand (Lefty) Hanson, on the mound for Elite, limited the M. E. South contingent to two hits and struck out eight.

A four-hit pitching performance by Ed Bristow accounted for Montgomery Ward's decision over Alliance Mutual Life in the feature game. Bristow struck out nine. Young Ev Winkler's wildness helped the Wards make most of the runs. A series of wild pitches and passed balls followed most of the Ward hits.

Thursday's Games

Irvine at Tustin; Costa Mesa at Placentia; San Juan Capistrano at Yorba Linda; Laguna Beach, bye.

Enjoying a bye in its schedule, Tustin nine remained atop the Orange County league standings today, but San Juan Capistrano dropped back into third place after last night's 6-2 defeat by Placentia. Smiley fanned 15 Missionists.

Irvine got into the "W" column for the first time with a 7-6 victory over Laguna Beach. Yorba Linda's line threat stopped Costa Mesa, 6-5.

The Yorba Linda-Costa Mesa game was a thriller, with the Yorba Linda nine forced to come from behind. Going into the ninth, Yorba Linda held a 4-2 advantage. Costa Mesa scored twice, to take a temporary 5-4 lead. Then Yorba Linda came back with two runs in its half.

Millard Foster's home run with Osterman aboard in the seventh accounted for Irvine's hard earned win.

ALL KINDS OF SPEED

Van Munro, the Dodgers' fast ball pitcher, also rates as the squad's speediest man on the base paths.

HUNTINGTON BEACH MAN ALMOST BOUGHT PASTEURIZED

This is a tale of woe, men a school athlete for whom Police Chief James S. Bouldin has predicted a colorful baseball career, plans to matriculate at Santa Ana junior college this fall. He will play his football under Bill Cook but will learn a few pointers on inside baseball with the Fullerton Firemen this summer.

But while Rood was making up his mind, and at the same time bringing in a few oil wells, Pasteurized was busy making ready for the Belmont Stakes. He knocked over Dauber in the Belmont, so now Pasteurized's owner (Mrs. W. P. Stewart) wouldn't consider any such price. Maurice Bernard says Rood feels like the guy that got shut out on Playmay at Santa Anita last winter.

When Mayor Croxton A. Boice of Orange introduced Marty Fielder as "the father of girls' softball in Southern California," at last night's official opening of Orange's city park, Fielder wasn't at loss for a wisecrack in answer.

"Up in Los Angeles, where I live, we are not as fortunate as the people of Orange in having a mayor who takes only five gallons of gasoline."

"Prink" Callison, who was sacked as football coach at the University of Oregon a few months ago and replaced by "Tex" Oliver, was arrested in Redwood City the other day and charged with drunk driving. You cannot blame the fellow. Oregon's football teams have been enough to drive any man to drink.

Aided by a generous referee event was a farce. Sammy Walk (Jack McDonald) and a partisan, colored, "resigned" after a crowd, Bernie Baca won his fourth consecutive bout at the Orange County Athletic club last night. He beat Cor McDonald and the fans thought so, at least.

A rangy Negro named Ed Jackson, representing the Ebony club, and substituting for Monroe Perkins. Jackson really won. He was a mile ahead on points going into the last round. This was forgotten completely when the court-ordered Baca, always the slow-starting, worked up a belated rally and drove Jackson all around the ring and finally floored him for a short count in his own corner.

Baca had the last heat all to himself but Jackson won the first three. In the first two, he outclassed the rugged Ontario Indian and even had him on the canvas twice. Referee McDonald must have decided the didn't even consult the two judges) that Baca was ahead because the crowd thought so, or because Baca did most of the leading.

Jackson received the verdict with the impassiveness characteristic of his race. They're used to it. They can take it.

The other half of the main

DENVER, Colo.—It's complaint time in the Rockies, not springtime.

Here in the land of eternal snow, the boys who make a living at golf are raising an eternal fuss over the condition of the Cherry Hills course, site of the National Open championship which starts Thursday.

"They say the rough is so deep and jungly that only a foolhardy man would venture into it without first finding in his stalker and native beaters. They say the fairways are so narrow that a snake could not crawl down them without having his tenders scratched by the bordering trees and vegetation."

Before Thursday they probably will have put the blast on the club's cooking, the rarified air, the score pads in the card room, and the cut of the caddies' clothes. No one will take offense at this, or hold it too seriously, because just as there is an unwritten law which guarantees a citizen the right to put anything he wants to in a martini—be it olive, onion, or prune—so there is an unwritten law which allows the golf professional to attack the National Open course.

They always do. If golf is played in Valhalla you may rest assured there are pros up there who object to the gold greens, pearl fairways, and the milk and honey hazards.

This squawks of the pros on the eve of all National Opens are based on their belief that officials of the host club always go out of their way to stiffen their course for the tournament.

In fairness to the professionals, school athlete for whom Police Chief James S. Bouldin has predicted a colorful baseball career, plans to matriculate at Santa Ana junior college this fall. He will play his football under Bill Cook but will learn a few pointers on inside baseball with the Fullerton Firemen this summer.

GOLFERS BEGIN 3-DAY TEST IN DENVER THURS.

DENVER.—(UP)—The emory wheel in Harold Long's pro shop was worked overtime today as America's ace golfers sharpened their implements of links warfare before starting the next to last day of heavy practice for the National Open golf championship.

The 42nd annual opening may be decided by the keenness of a pitching iron. This is because the Cherry Hills course where the National will be played Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, places a premium on straight tee shots. So, when a drive is sent off line, the player will find himself in deep rough and the smart way to get out is to use a pitching implement with enough of a razor edge to cut through the Colorado clover and sky the ball to the tiny green.

Frank Walsh, who has played in every open for the past decade, was a good, average example of the player who was sharpening his irons.

"I'm carrying no fewer than three dynamiters," Walsh said today. "And to do this I am putting only two woods in my bag. They'll be a driver and a No. 3 wood. You watch the other bags and you'll find the boys are carrying three woods at the very most. Some won't even use a driver. They'll use a brassie or a spoon off the tees and use their irons the rest of the way."

Most discussed hole of the Cherry Hills layout which is set near the snow-capped Rocky mountains, was No. 17, a five par item of 545 yards. This hole, according to Walsh, is the toughest five-par hole for a National in the past 10 years. It has an island green.

COUPLE TO CELEBRATE 60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY JUNE 9

FULLERTON, June 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Stone, who have resided in Fullerton since 1898, will observe their 60th wedding anniversary next Thursday. They started school together 77 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Stone are natives of England.

They were married at Birmingham on June 9, 1878, and came to America with their three children in 1891, first taking residence in Utah, and later coming to Fullerton.

Mrs. Stone was Ellen Chamberlain and was born at Brom, Worcestershire, and Mr. Stone was born at Cutnall Green, about a mile away. Both were born in 1855. When Ellen Chamberlain, 77 years ago, started to school, she walked past the home of her neighbor, and the two children walked the balance of the distance, more than a mile, together.

Mr. Stone was a cooper and in America has followed carpentering and the nursery trades. They have three children, and there are two groups of four generations of women in the family.

Children of Couple
The children are Mrs. Ellen Woodward, Fullerton; Mrs. Delozer, of Glendale, and Ernest Stone of Fullerton.

Mrs. Delozer has a daughter, Mrs. Irma Jacobsen, also of Glendale, and a son, Phil Delozer, and Mrs. Jacobsen has a daughter, Judith Joan, aged four months.

Mrs. Woodward has two daughters and two sons and the second daughter, Mrs. Edna Raynor of Fullerton, has a daughter, Marilyn, aged five years. The other children of Mrs. Woodward are Mrs. Mary Ranker of Riverside, who has one son, and Chesley Woodward and Gordon Woodward, of Fullerton. Ernest Stone has three children, Mrs. Ellen May Simpson, Raymond Stone, and Hazel Irene Stone, all of Fullerton.

Clears Cows, Asks Hunt for Thief

The sheep may be in the meadow and the cow in the corn somewhere where both Mrs. Constance Stutts, 618 West 10th street, is almost certain a cow isn't stealing her corn. She thinks a hungry thief has been visiting her vegetable garden.

"I'm growing corn on the southeast corner of 10th and Parton," she told police yesterday. "And someone has stolen a dozen ears of it."

The generous Mrs. Stutts added that she wouldn't mind so much if the corn were ripe. "In fact," she said, "When the corn is ripe, I'll gladly give some of it to the person who's taking it now."

COMPLAINTS OF FLORIST

Complaint of Mrs. H. King against operation of a florist shop at 902 South Birch was referred by city council last night to Councilman Joe P. Smith and Plummer Bruns and City Attorney Lew Blodgett for investigation and report. Mrs. King, neighbor of the florist, Mrs. William C. Freidinger, declared the florist shop was being operated at the Freidinger home, 902 South Birch, although the permit granted her provides for operation of the shop in South Main street. Mrs. King appeared before the council to make her protest. She said the florist shop lowered property values in the neighborhood and its operation disturbed her.

Action Deferred On Cities' Pleas

Action of the county supervisors on the request of municipalities for $100,000 allocation of state gas tax funds was referred today to the afternoon session, at the request of Supervisor Harry D. Riley, who asked more time to consider the request.

The supervisors today received a claim for $3500 damages from Harry A. Coffman, West Anaheim rancher, for injury caused to his land and trees, Coffman claimed, by storm waters impounded in the West Anaheim storm basin. The claim was referred to the district attorney.

Similar action was taken on another claim of $234.62 based on destruction of a stock of greases owned by the Eddie Martin Oil company. The stock was lost when Roy Head's service station burned after a county ambulance collided with C. C. Wilson's car on West First street, and plunged into the service station.

Good Deed Costs Woman Purse, $5

Mrs. Jessie Reed, 212 North Garnsey, isn't sure today whether playing the "Good Samaritan" has as many rewards as the philosophers claim.

At 5:30 p. m. yesterday, she told police, she was at Birch park enjoying an outing when she noticed two women needed assistance in crossing the street. Hurrying to their aid, she completed her good deed. Looking back, after crossing the street, she saw a man leisurely strolling away with her purse which she had left on a park bench.

Running after him failed to do any good. He out-distanced her in a foot-race. Her purse contained $5 in cash.

Douglas Plea Denied By Court

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—(UP)—The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals today dismissed a petition of the Donald Douglas Aircraft Corporation of Santa Monica which asked the court to review and set aside a National Labor Relations Board order instructing the company to reinstate 43 striking employees with back pay.

John Jennings, NLRB counsel, told the court the board previously had withdrawn the order to prevent it from being possibly overruled because of procedural errors. Donald Douglas, president of the aircraft company who contested validity of the NLRB order, had sought to prevent the board from withdrawing the order so that the case might be tried on its own merits.

M. in Pomona so poultrymen in Southern California can obtain first hand information which will help them with ranch problems.

geles County Livestock Inspector's office, whose chief, Dr. L. M. Hurt, is very much concerned over the high mortality suffered by poultry during past years.

Dr. Ralph Schofield has direct supervision of the work, with the Agricultural Extension Service and Veterinary Division of the University of California cooperating. Orange County poultrymen are urged to attend this meeting and demonstration by Ross E. Crane, assistant farm advisor.

REVEAL ERRORS ON JOB LISTS

SACRAMENTO, June 7.—California employers have submitted approximately 15,000 employee earnings records for the first quarter of 1938 on which errors exist in the Social Security account numbers.

Carlton B. Tibbetts, San Marino, member of the Unemployment Reserves commission, said these errors will cause much confusion until they are straightened out by the department.

Seek Correct Numbers

"By checking these 15,000 against previous records," Tibbetts said, "the department has identified approximately 7000 of the accounts. This means that some 8000 reports are still unusable as submitted by employers."

"It will be necessary for the department to communicate with the employers to obtain the correct numbers," as many of these 8000 persons may later apply for unemployment compensation benefits. The department, however, will not wait until such applications are made to complete the job, as this would mean an unnecessary delay in payment of unemployment compensation checks.

4 CITY OFFICIALS SUBMIT REPORTS

Financial reports of four city officials for May were submitted to city council last night and referred to the finance committee for checking.

Building Inspector Harold Rasmussen reported issuing 68 building permits for a valuation of $127,663 and collection of $305 in fees, and issuance of 20 plastering permits with collection of $87.50 in fees.

H. O. Crowe, plumbing inspector, reported issuing 96 plumbing permits for a valuation of $14,944 and collection of fees in the amount of $239. He also collected $25 for issuing 26 sewer permits and 50 cents for sale of a copy of an ordinance. W. O. Packard, electrical inspector, issued 69 permits and collected $175.95 in fees.

City Judge J. G. Mitchell's collection of fines "fell off" from April this year and May, 1937. His total showed collection of $2492.90 for May, 1938, as compared with $3,622.16 for May, last year, and $2616.09 for April this year.

Court Notes

The late Mrs. Mattie Edwards, of Placentia, who died May 15 in Los Angeles, left a separate estate of $9600, consisting of 8.67 acres on Placentia avenue, equally to her two children, Hugh Edwards of Fullerton, and Gladys K. Edwards, of Placentia, it was shown today when they filed her will for probate in superior court. In addition she left an interest in community property worth in excess of $1000, held jointly with her husband, Arthur J. Edwards.

An estate worth $5000 was left by the late Henry Freese, of Anaheim, to his daughter, Anna Allen, of Glendale, according to a petition she filed today in superior court for letters of administration. The estate includes a dwelling at 214 Kroeger street, Anaheim, and $1400 in cash.

H. N. White, Anaheim hardware dealer who died June 2, left an estate valued at $25,600, including a $10,000 hardware stock, $14,000 in securities and $1000 cash, it was stated in a superior court petition for letters of administration, just filed by his son, Stuart N. White, Orange high school football coach. The heirs include the widow, the son, and three daughters, Miss Ruth White, Los Angeles; Mrs. Mabel Walker and Mrs. Mary Alice Shawhan, both of Anaheim.

L. A. GETS NEW BOVINE RATING

SACRAMENTO, June 7.—Tuberculosis testing of cattle in Los Angeles county having shown that less than one half of one per cent reacted to the test, the county has been rated by the United States department of agriculture as a modified accredited bovine tuberculosis free area. It was announced today by the division of animal industry, California department of agriculture. The last complete test, and on which basis the federal recognition was granted, included 108,440 cattle. The significance of the completed task is seen in the fact that there are eight states in the union with a dairy cattle population of less than 100,000. With the addition of Los Angeles county, 40 counties have now been given the federal rating, 13 counties remaining in which tuberculosis testing is proceeding. The major part of the eradication of the disease remaining in California centers in several San Joaquin valley counties, where the work has been delayed by reason of court injunctions.

THE GREATEST OF ALL BARRIERS TO DICTATORSHIP IS A Free Press

THERE can be no successful dictatorship in this country, or in any other country, as long as newspapers remain free and untrammelled. By the very nature of their public service, they must scrutinize and report every act and every policy of the government, they must focus the attention of the people on the motives and conduct of every official and every candidate for public office. Freedom of the press is the greatest of all barriers to dictatorship and every aspiring dictator knows it. The countries where newspapers have lost their freedom are the countries where free government of a free people has perished. Americans can take to heart the lesson. Your newspaper, which you may take for granted as a familiar part of daily life, is your guarantee that American liberty shall survive. Support your newspaper—protect it—insist that it retain its independence—for its welfare is your welfare—its freedom is your freedom.

Jimmie Fidler in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 7. — The average Hollywood visitor is always surprised by the lack of ostentation on the part of our outstanding stars. He expects to see them driving imported limousines and feels cheated when he finds the great majority of them gadding around in jalopies costing less than $1000. He has read in some fan magazine about their jewelry, their furs and their sequin gowns and suffers great mental let-down when he discovers that the Crawfords, Shearers and Colberts of Filmdom dress far more conservatively than most of their non-professional sisters.

Fifteen years ago, his expectations would have been fulfilled one hundred per cent. In those more colorful days, our glamorous ones lay awake nights trying to concoct new ways in which to out-swank their rivals. If Mae Murray appeared at an informal luncheon wearing fifty thousand dollars worth of diamonds, Gloria Swanson was sure to call her bet and raise her a necklace or two. And any car less luxurious than a Rolls was considered bad form.

Just why the great change, I don't know. Perhaps the depression is responsible; perhaps the credit should be given to the invasion of a soberer element from the New York stage. The great simplification was achieved that most of us never even noticed it was under way. But it has been thorough. Today I say one of our most glamorous ladies eating sauerkraut—in public.

Amazing how many of today's best known players got their initial boost up fame's ladder by virtue of a fluke. Consider, for instance, Helen Broderick and the success story she told me today over a glass of beer. Some years ago (Hollywood ladies never go into exact detail about dates) Helen was Ina Claire's understudy in a Broadway melodrama. One night Ina was taken ill and Helen had to go on in her role. With her first dramatic line, the audience burst into laughter—and the more she dramatized her emotions, the louder the guffaws that greeted them. Only sheer will power kept her going and when she left the stage at the end of the first act, she broke into a storm of tears. "Don't be a fool!" the manager roared. "They're not laughing at you—they're laughing with you. Maybe you're not another Bernhardt—but we've discovered a new comedy star!" Since that night, Helen Broderick has never lacked for parts.

I don't think Carole Lombard need worry, but fifteen-year-old Judy Garland has a tremendous case on Clark Gable. And Clark is notably fond of her. On her recent personal appearance tour, she wrote a daily post card to Clark, received three letters in reply and then—nothing but silence. But when she brought her worries back to Hollywood, she found at her home ten postcards which Clark had written from Mexico where he had gone on a hunting jaunt. Judy's faith in men was restored. Today, on the set, I asked her how her romance is progressing. "Count there," she chorled, taking all of Clark's correspondence from her purse. "Carole Lombard only got three letters!"

Had lunch with Peter Lorre today, commented on his unusually haggard appearance, and heard a

NEW COURSES ARE ADDED AT COLLEGE

Dr. Ivar Westerberg, director of University of Redlands summer session, has announced several new and attractive courses that will be offered to those interested in the field of Education.

Registration will be held at 8 a. m., June 13, in the assembly room of the Hall of Letters. Of special interest is the fact that Miss Margaret Erdt, art supervisor of the San Bernardino schools, will be a member of the faculty, teaching practical phases of elementary school work.

MARR WILL BE CAPTIVE HERE

Warren Marr, reportedly the greatest confidence man in the United States today and wanted here will be paroled soon. But he will walk out of Indiana state penitentiary only to walk into the clutches of Orange county authorities.

That was revealed today by Sheriff Logan Jackson who received a telegram from Warden Kunkel of the Indiana penitentiary. Marr, who has a criminal record covering more than a dozen years, was being prosecuted in superior court here in 1936 on four counts of grand theft and four counts of violation of the state corporate securities act when he escaped from Deputy Sheriff Frank Dawson in Pasadena.

Letter Is Forged
Marr, it was revealed three weeks ago, almost made good his escape from prosecution here when he or a friend of his in the Indiana prison, according to allegations, forged a letterhead of the local sheriff's office, wrote a letter purportedly from Logan Jackson, directing Marr's own release.

The forged letter, apparently manufactured from inside the Indiana prison, was sent here inside of another letter, then mailed to Warden Kunkel from here. It said that "Marr is no longer wanted by Orange county authorities."

Seeks To Escape
"Marr won't escape again!" was the sheriff's brief statement. "He will face prosecution in this county and soon."

The convict, captured in Indiana following his escape here, is accused of fleeing several elderly Orange county persons in oil stock manipulations. When first extradited from Detroit, Mich., October 5, 1936, Marr fought "every inch of the way" to escape being returned here and Deputy Sheriff R. K. Lutes found it necessary to "smuggle" Marr from Detroit to avoid the alleged trickery of Marr's lawyers.

Beach Party Held For 5-H Members

An enjoyable beach party was held at Huntington Beach last week by the Orange County 5-H club. The group met at the plunge and after swimming and games in the plunge, a wiener and marshmallow roast was staged on the beach.

Orange County To Be Publicized

Orange county will find one of its cities the subject of nationwide attention next Sunday when John Hix, on his weekly "Strange As It Seems" radio program, dramatizes the story of some of Huntington Beach's oil wells.

Using the title "Encyclopedia Oil," Hix will present a playlet revealing how a New England publisher and a California real estate operator combined forces to sell books with city lots as premiums; and how later oil was discovered on the lots that had been obtained without cost by the fortunate owners. The program can be heard locally from KNX at 2 p. m.

ASSOCIATION TO MEET
Monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Crippled Children's Relief association of Orange county, will be held at 12 noon Friday at the Elks club, 423 North Los Angeles street, Anaheim, it was announced today by Miss E. Kate Rea, president.

'Sign of Romance' With Bright Light Irritates Resident

Without intention of discouraging wedding parties, E. E. Webster, apartment house operator at 1228 North Broadway, headed a group last night which told city council "enough is enough."

Webster didn't protest against love nor against marriage—not weddings. He merely asked that the size of the sign which advertises wedding service at Broadway and 13th street (Washington) be reduced. He and his tenants want to sleep. The light is too bright and, besides, it is illegal, he argued. The sign is larger than the law allows. Twelve square feet is the limit but the wedding chapel sign far exceeds that total, he argued.

Furthermore, there are 13 protestors; they allege the zoning ordinance prohibits such a large sign. The problem was referred to the city attorney and electrical inspector for solution.

WPA LAYS OFF 150 LOCAL MEN

Approximately 150 Orange county WPA workers face the problem of unemployment unless projects for "light" work projects come forward within the next two days and provide for the "B" class of workers, according to local WPA officials.

The "B" workers are those who have been judged by WPA medical examinations as unfit for heavy laboring jobs but are fully qualified for lighter types of work. More than 500 "B" workers are on the rolls of the local WPA office.

Project Nears Completion
Men who face the lay-off are those who were transferred for work at Irvine park some months ago and have been employed since at Santiago park. The Santiago project is scheduled to be completed within the next two days and there are no other projects that will employ the 150 "B" workers.

The workers unqualified for heavy work make up more than 25 per cent of the total WPA workers in the county.

WORK TO START SOON IN CITY

Grading of Santa Ana alleys and several streets will be started soon as result of approval of a WPA allotment of $20,666, it was revealed in a dispatch to The Register today.

The approval was given in Washington, D. C., by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Acting Comptroller General R. N. Elliott. City Engineer J. L. McBride said the application was filed a long time ago, the money to be used as a drainage aid.

Trouble Eliminator
"At times of high water, water in some of the alleys drains onto adjacent private property, doing some damage," Engineer McBride said. "The money will be used to eliminate the trouble. Most of the money will be used on alley repair."

City officials, sponsors of the project, have assured the WPA that no local taxes or assessments will be levied to cover the amount of the federal grant, federal officials said.

The approval of the comptroller general is practically the last step in the checkup of a WPA project here. The state WPA administrator must sign the agreement but his action will be only an assured formality in this instance, officials reported.

ESTATE IS ESTIMATED

The late William Manning of Santa Ana, who died May 3, left an estate consisting of a lease on a cafe at 212 Bush street, Santa Ana, together with stock and fixtures of the cafe, valued altogether at less than $10,000, according to a petition filed today in superior court by his widow, Janice Manning, asking letters of administration. The widow and two brothers, Charles of Corona and Cecil of St. Louis, Mo., are legal heirs.

SOCIETY AND CLUBS WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

Assistance League Has Final Meeting of The Season

Although final reports on Santa Ana Assistance League's second annual horse show have not been made, members of the organization yesterday closed their activities for the season with the announcement that the recent event netted a greater amount than did the 1937 horse show.

Mrs. William T. White Jr. opened her charming home on Harbor Island for yesterday's affair, which she and Mrs. C. Mortimer Plum gave together. They had selected the choicest flowers from their home gardens, so that the rooms were ablaze with carnations, pink and yellow gladioluses and daisies.

White peacock figures adorned the lace-draped dining room table, where a pottery ring filled with orchid scabiosa and yellow cornucopias proved a colorful centerpiece. Roses brightened smaller tables at which luncheon was served.

While enjoying the view of the bay, members discussed the success of the horse show, which added a gratifying sum to the League's charity fund. It was pointed out that although the organization will not meet during the summer, the charity work will continue, with maternity cases to be cared for at Santa Ana Valley hospital, and children, at St. Joseph hospital. Mrs. John Ball is chairman of this project.

Mrs. Lloyd Chenoweth, president, conducted this final business meeting of the season. Plans were made to hold autumn's first meeting on Monday, September 19, in the beach home of Mrs. Lyman Farwell, with Mrs. Richard Winkler as co-hostess.

Mrs. Clifford Quisell received a lovely assortment of layette gifts recently when she was honor guest at a shower given in the home of Mrs. Ira Kroese, 2104 Greenleaf street. Hostesses with Mrs. Kroese were Mrs. James Anderson and Mrs. Wayne Tibbs.

Cecil Bruner roses and blue daisies centered small tables, which were appointed with pink and blue nuptials of bottle design. Dessert was served in this setting early in the afternoon. Large jars of Japanese primroses added to the decorations.

Mrs. Quisell received her gifts just before bridge play. Winning prizes for first and second high scores in cards were Mrs. Newell Moore and Mrs. John Miller. Invited to share the plans of the three hostesses were the honor guest and her mother, Mrs. W. C. Vicari; with Mesdames Roscoe Morris, Cecil Mahoney, James Merigold, John Criddle, H. G. Wilson, P. J. In addition to organ numbers, were vocal solos preceding the nuptials. Gladioluses in shades of pink, white blossoms and tall tapers provided the bridal setting.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Crowther was a pretty bride in her white crepe frock work with in her white crepe frock won with of rosebuds and lilies of the valley. She was the fifth bride to carry the dainty lace handkerchief belonging to Mrs. L. A. Ryherd of this city. Club Foundation Fund Party is Enjoyed

That series of foundation fund parties now drawing to a close for Woman's club members, and which will include four additional affairs to come before the club year is entirely closed, had another pleasant event added Saturday when Mrs. William E. Dennis entertained in her home, 932 Louise street.

Serving a dessert course in advance of the afternoon's contract play, the hostess achieved a charming effect by using pale mauve and pink Canterbury bells in conjunction with the delicate green of her service.

Others sharing the hospitality of Mrs. Dennis were Mesdames Leona Talbot, Earl Lepper, Laura James, A. A. Schlusman, Adelaide Saffel, Louis McGowan and Mrs. George L. Wright.

Tessmann will serve as program chairman for the chapter under Mrs. S. W. Nau's presidency. Mixing Bowl
BY ANN MEREDITH

Exactly what makes a potato salad good? A reader asks publication of a "good potato salad." Well, since I seem to be on the spot and spokesman, I'll say what I think about potato salads, good and bad. In the first place, I feel that a mess of salty sliced potato flavored with hunk of onion before being buried in a non-descript mayonnaise dressing, is about tops in awful bad food. The reverse of this picture is the salad we like with hot baked ham in our house, and it is made this way.

First scrub some potatoes (one big one to each person) and boil in their jackets. While they boil, dice a heaping cupful of bacon and fry slowly until crisp. Blend with hot bacon fat about one-third cup of flour, a teaspoon of sugar, a tiny pinch of cayenne and a crushed clove of garlic. Mix together one cup weak vinegar with 1-2 cup boiling water and add to the bacon mixture. Stir until this mixture thickens, then add pepper and paprika and fish out the clove of garlic. Keep the dressing over hot water. I almost forgot the hard-boiled egg. Drop about four eggs into the kettle with the potatoes, cook them 25 minutes, peel and set aside to cool. By now your potatoes are ready. Peel and slice thin into a big garlic-rubbed bowl, sprinkle them with a spoonful of celery seed, add a medium sized onion, chopped or grated, and a few spoonfuls of good French dressing. Lift the salad material with forks to distribute the dressing, then add one head of lettuce, cut fine, a sweet pickle chopped and the bacon dressing. Lift lightly to mix, then garnish top of bowl with sliced egg and slices or wedges of peeled tomato.

For extra goodness try adding a small head of cauliflower (raw) sliced very thin . . . makes salad taste as if it had chopped nuts of some kind in its innards.

When this salad is cold, it may be re-vamped by trimmings and mayonnaise garnish.

A good recipe and a stamped, addressed envelope are the requirements we ask when you write for our big Calory List. Get one and have fun with your family and friends.

TODAY'S RECIPES
Strawberry Jam

4 cups choice ripe strawberries, measured after hulling
5 standard measuring cups of sugar
Juice of 1 large or 2 small lemons.

Kitchen-tested contributed recipe Wash the berries in cold water until the water indicates no sand. Lift into a colander and drain. Transfer berries to a bowl and cover with the sugar, cover and let stand over night. In preserving them, use a shallow wide pan, bring the berries slowly to a boil (melt sugar), then increase the heat, add lemon juice, again bring to a rolling boil and time for exacting 10 minutes of cooking. Seal in pint jars while still boiling hot and as the jars cool, turn them upside down and on their side to distribute the berries evenly through the thick syrup. Best results are obtained by NOT doubling the recipe at one making.

A tasty whole meal is contained in this supper salad. Keep the recipe for one of your hot weather menus.

Macaroni and Tuna Salad
1 cup elbow macaroni (raw measure) cooked, well rinsed under hot water
1 cup finely chopped celery
1 cup, or less, sliced stuffed olives
1 teaspoon onion juice, or grated onion
2 large ripe tomatoes, peeled and diced
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 can of tuna fish (7 oz.)
Mayonnaise, salt and pepper to taste.

Chill macaroni after rinsing. Combine with all ingredients. Dress sparingly with mayonnaise, arrange in a garnished salad bowl and chill for a few hours before serving.

PIONEER TEACHER IS HONOR
GUEST AT FAREWELL AFFAIR

ORANGE, June 7.—Last night the long fronds of the palm trees in the patio of the Lydia Killefer school swayed softly in a cool night breeze, colored lights twinkled in a bright square, faint stars and a waning moon swung on their courses far, far overhead in a misty sky, as hundreds of persons gathered to pay homage to a loved friend and teacher, Miss Lydia Killefer, for whom the school was named.

Honor guest at the reception, Miss Killefer, has had the unusual experience, not only of teaching in the school for 43 consecutive years, but of having attended the school herself for two years, finishing the ninth grade when G. W. Weeks was principal. The veteran teacher was born in Clay county, Ill., and she completed a teachers' course at the Los Angeles State Normal school, located where the Los Angeles Public Library now stands.

Gifts Presented J. P. Greeley, of Balboa, first superintendent of schools of Orange county when it was formed in 1889, at the close of a program given on the stage of the patio, conducted Miss Killefer to a handsome chair by which stood a reading lamp equipped with magazine rack, symbolic of the hours of leisure which are to be her's. The gift was presented by Mr. Greeley. B. F. Beswick, assistant county superintendent of schools, gave a review of Miss Killefer's life and teaching activities. Miss Killefer had attended school with Mr. Beswick and with Mrs. R. W. Jones and Mrs. Angeline Courtney of Orange. Several families from Los Angeles and Oceanside as well as from every city in Orange county were present.

Old Friends Meet Miss Killefer, it was recalled last night as old friend met old friend, and stopped to chat, had taken the children of the community into her classes and into her heart. She had welcomed the lonesome and homesick newcomers on her lap, sometimes one on each knee, comforting them in their first experience away from home. She watched her boys march away to the World War, many never to return. She has seen her girls marry and become happy homemakers and mothers and she has guided their children in the first school years.

Every morning Miss Killefer has rung the school bell in the tower of the school, the old bell which has followed her as new buildings have replaced old ones. This fall, she says, she is going to take a trip when it is time for that bell to ring and she will no longer give the summons.

Program Presented In apricot lace, Miss Killefer presented a queenly and lovely figure as she bade farewell to her school and its duties. Mrs. T. J. Seavy, president of the Parent-Teacher association of the school, stood by her. Guests were received at the door by Mrs. Oliver Wickersheim. Mrs. E. G. Stinson arranged a program given by a stringed quartet, furnished by Mrs. Frances Hippard, songs were sung by H. E. Gilton, musical readings given by Myrth Stinson and violin solos by John Knox Stout. Accompanists were Vladimir Lenski, Mrs. Charles G. Nalle, Santa Ana, and Harold Larson.

Our Children
By Angelo Petri
AN UNFINISHED JOB

"O, dear! The term's over and I have to send those children ahead. I had hoped to run over the subtraction tables with them before they went, but there was no time."

"But subtraction does not come in this grade, Miss Lou, does it?"
"No. We do only addition. But I always think that they ought to be able to reverse the tables, don't you see? Two and one make three. Two and one make three. That would complete the work, but you cannot do that unless you have very bright children and plenty of time."

"Why not leave it for the next teacher?"
"They'd be much better prepared. I do like to send them on perfectly prepared for the new work. Give them a start."

We are all alike when it comes to teaching children. Enough is never sufficient. If they get one term's work done, give them more. If they get A in a subject make them do double work to perfect it. If they do well press them to do better. If they are promote every term skip a class now and then to keep them working harder. Why? O, because we like to do a good job.

A little less ambition on the part of teachers, or parents, would do a lot of good to the children. Children are unfinished jobs. A baby has a great deal to do to perfect himself after he arrives here. He was sent along quite imperfect, measured by his possibilities; and is not that the way for teachers, and parents, to measure children? I have heard of mothers who began educating their children the day they were born, just to give them a good start in school, you know.

Nature gave human children the longest period of infancy. That period is commonly believed to end at twenty-one years, but my experience teaches me that it extends far beyond that time, even down to old age. There is no hurry about finishing the job that Nature has not limited, either in time or in extent. We will help the children more by letting them progress at their own rate of speed, in their own rhythm, than by pressing them to do a little more than their best.

It is wise to set a standard of achievement for children. Some point to be reached, some distance covered; encourages them to do a day's work. When that work is done and well done, let it rest. Praise the child for what has been accomplished, and stop pressing him. Remember that growth takes place in the quiet of the inner being. Be content with work well done today and let tomorrow's stint wait for tomorrow's need.

Parents often say to a child who shows a B plus, or a ninety-eight, "Now why couldn't you get a hundred? Why couldn't you make that an A?" That is one straw too many. It is trying to finish a job that Nature in her wisdom left unfinished so that time and experience working together, might do a more perfect job. Be content with good if you get it. Out of line.

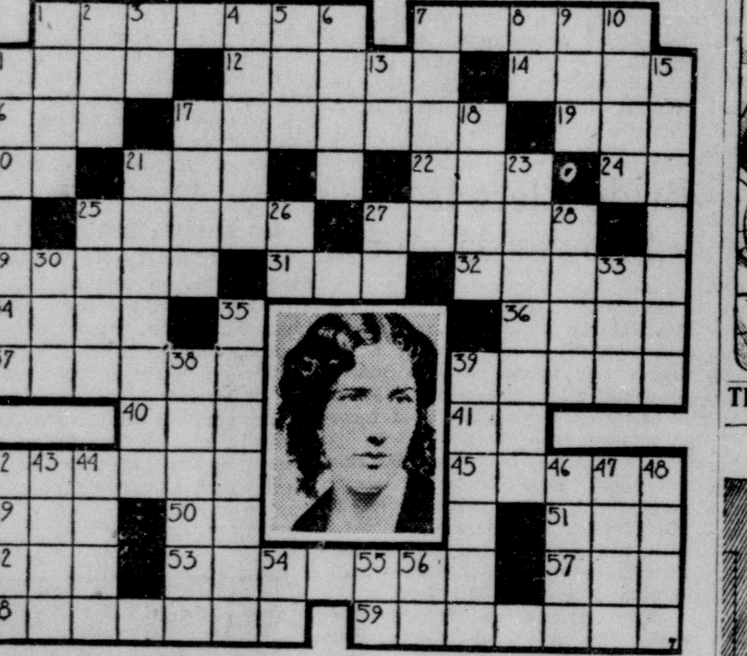

good better comes. Out of better, grows best. But mark you—it grows; it is not forced. Finishing a child is not our job. Leave it where it belongs, in the hands of Nature's teachers, Time and Experience.

Swings Royally

A royal good time was had by all in the ballroom of Buckingham Palace when ash-blonde and shapely Evelyn Dail, above, from New York's Bronx, sang swing songs from the handstand while King George, Queen Elizabeth, royal princes, dukes and earls and their coroneted wives danced to the latest hits at the Royal Derby Night Ball. It was the most informal dance ever given by the British rulers.

Headliners in the Primary Elections in Iowa. Controversy Over Hopkins' Endorsement of Wearin Highlights Senatorial Race

Otha Wearin

Guy Gillette

Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson

L. J. Dickinson

Lloyd Thurston

George Wilson

N. G. Kraschel

The Iowa Democratic senatorial primary was catapulted into the national political spotlight as Harry Hopkins, WPA chief, endorsed the candidacy of Representative Otha Wearin against the incumbent, Senator Guy Gillette. Quick to denounce Hopkins' stand were Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D-Mont.), other senators and Iowa's Governor N. G. Kraschel. Others who sought nomination in the June 6 primary are Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson, W. J. Byerhoff and J. J. Myers.

In the race for the Republican nomination for senator from Iowa, former Senator L. J. Dickinson, who was mentioned as a Republican presidential possibility in 1936, opposed Representative Lloyd Thurston. Dickinson has been prominent in national politics for many years.

Unopposed in the Democratic gubernatorial primary in Iowa is Gov. N. G. Kraschel. His opponent in the November elections was George Wilson, who lost in the race for governor two years ago and has not held public office since that time. Wilson, a former state senator, was unopposed for the Republican nomination.

Jury Hears of 'Death on Alcatraz'

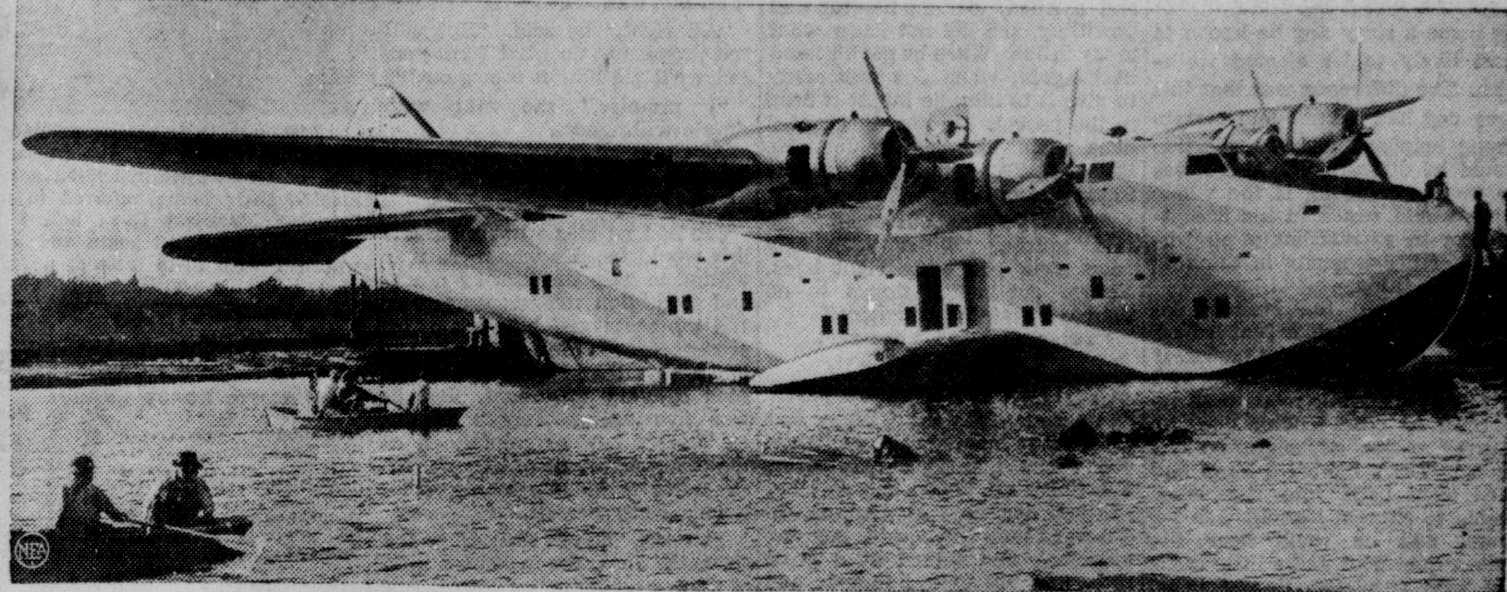

A San Francisco coroner's jury heard the story of a desperate attempt by three convicts to escape "The Rock" in San Francisco Bay when Harold P. Stites, left, Alcatraz guard, told of killing Thomas R. Limerick and wounding another prisoner. A guard was bludgeoned to death by the convicts. On the coroner's table is a death mask of Limerick, the bullet hole apparent in the skull.

At the Races

Biggest Plane Ready to Span Biggest Oceans

Launched in the Duwamish river at Seattle, the giant Atlantic Clipper dwarfs small boats floating nearby and gives spectators a graphic show of her tremendous size. Built by Boeing for Pan American Airways, the ship may be put into service this summer over either the Atlantic or Pacific and will then be the largest plane flying on any of the world's air routes. The 72-passenger "flying hotel," built at a cost of more than $1,000,000, will sleep 40. The ship has a height of 28 1-2 feet, wing span of 152 feet and length of 109 feet.

Commencement-With Autogiros

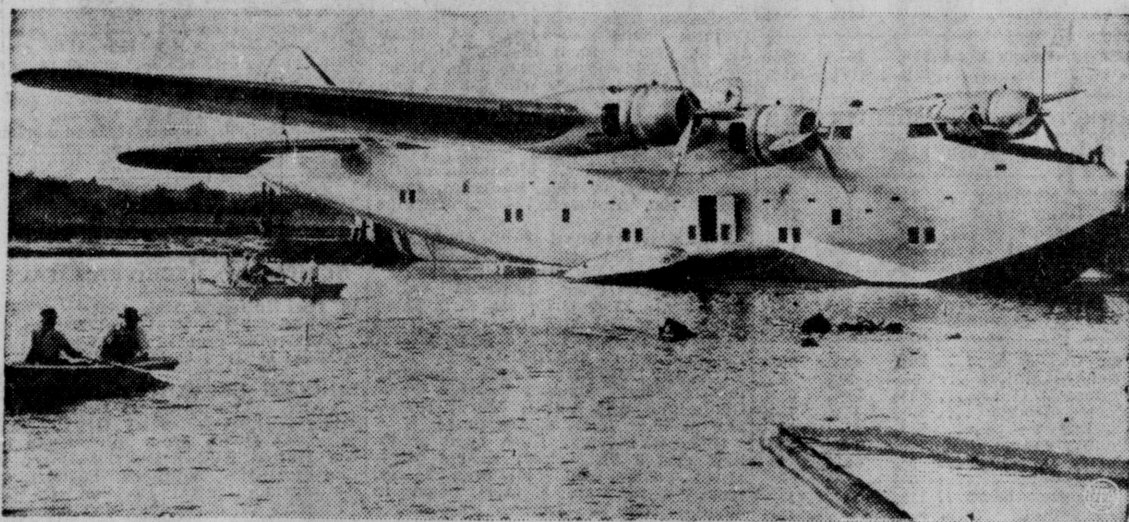

You'd get dizzy if you watched these graduation exercises long enough. It's a special show put on by the first class to finish the course at the U. S. Army's new autogiro school at Wright Field, Dayton, O. The unusual picture shows five of the wingless planes flying in formation.

"Hi, Ho, Hi Ho, It's Off to War We Go!"

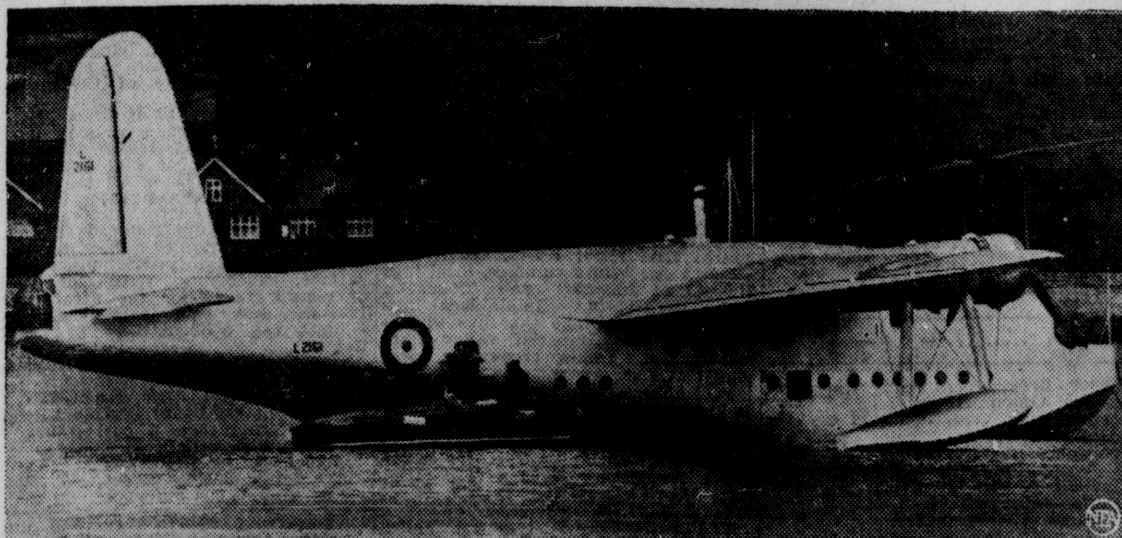

Slogging along in the dust, Japanese infantrymen are pictured above as they rushed from the comparatively quiet Shanghai area to the aid of their comrades beset by overwhelming Chinese forces in central China. With an estimated Japanese army of 400,000 facing 1,000,000 Chinese troops along a 250-mile crescent-shaped front, the Nipponese invaders have constantly to shift reinforcements to points suddenly threatened by the unpredictable guerilla thrusts of the Chinese.

Sky Colossus Launched, Set for First Test Flights

Readied for initial tests of its wings and flying qualities, the new giant Boeing flying boat first must try its "body" in water tests. And here's the new colossus of the skies, as it was launched near the Boeing plant at Seattle, Wash. This is the first of six "flying hotels" to be built for Pan American Airways for transoceanic service on both the Atlantic and Pacific airlines. It weighs 82,500 pounds, has a wing span of 152 feet and will carry 72 passengers.

Britain's Flying Dragon Has Sting In Its Tail

Great Britain's newest aerial battleship is pictured as a naval-type revolving gun turret, the "Sunderland." Carrying a deadly "sting" in its tail in the form of a biplane, being readied for her trial flight over the Medway at Rochester, England. First military flying boat to be so equipped, the "flying dragon" is capable of making 3000-mile trips carrying guns and bombs, will shortly take off on a demonstration flight to Singapore carrying a crew of six.

Rubber Man Does His Own Face-Lifting

Reel Mother—Real Mother

Proudly taking the role of mother in real life, Eleanor King, star of the recent motion picture "Birth of a Baby," is pictured above as she presents her recently born son for his camera debut in a New York hospital. The actress-mother in the educational film, which member of the organization's aroused nation-wide controversy, is Mrs. Lowell Birrell in private life.

Twice Spanked

When Mrs. Ina Jane Arnold, above, heard a defense lawyer say a spanking her husband gave her couldn't have hurt much, she cried: "It did too hurt." The judge sentenced Mrs. Arnold to $5 or five days for contempt of court. She went to jail.

Ruler Shows Will—at Polls

Taking personal part in Czechoslovakia's current civil elections, held to be barometers of the government's strength against insurgent minorities, President Eduard Benes and Mrs. Benes are pictured above emerging from the polling place in Prague after voting.

Garlanded with leis sent from Hawaii, Rupert Hughes, author and playwright, banquets at the annual convention of the American Society for the Hard of Hearing in Cleveland. Mr. Hughes is a member of the organization's advisory board.

This Man, Joe Murray

BY WILLIAM CORCORAN Copyright, 1938, by William Corcoran; NEA Service, Inc.

Although their ages combined total just 21 years, the technical age for being "grown up," the daughter of King George and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain exhibit a mature poise on public occasions that forbids their being referred to any more as the "Baby Princesses." Princess Margaret Rose, left, 8 years and 10 months, and Princess Elizabeth, right, 12 years and 2 months, are pictured above as they watched with keen interest a recent Buckingham Palace military review.

They're Growing Up

"Certainly." "Will you help me? Will you come and see me again? Then I won't have to." "You'll soon come of age. Then you can tell them to go climb a pole." "You don't know!" "All right," he said. "But will you promise to do what I tell you, and we'll see how it comes out?" "I promise," she said with simple willingness. And that was how it stood from then on: she had promised, and he had to tell her what to do. Joe had no idea what a bargain this would be. He was more than willing to help the kid, by advice and suggestion and encouragement and the occasional bulwark of his presence—even by clipping any likely lay that stood in need of such salutary treatment. But he was figuring on Terry's family, on Terry's boy acquaintances, on the external things of Terry's life. He failed to include in his calculations Terry himself.

You see, Terry Mallow had a strength. Joe came to sense a little of that as he knew her better. She had cast about, got what she thought was something of a hold on Tommy Withers, and she would have hung on to him for dear life if anybody else but Joe had ordered her to let go. Joe's orders were different, for the simple reason that he was so patently superior to Tommy Withers, so much more awesome and admirable—and she let Tommy go, to catch hold of Joe Murray, and without him even knowing it, to start right in holding on for dear life.

just smiling and looking at him and waiting. The old man looked at the hand, his face took on a more sour expression than ever, and he moved his solid shoulders a little, uneasily. He grunted again. He did not know what to say, because he did not want to say something pleasant, and Joe gave him no other opening. There is a strength in men that is like a flowing force, and if two men meet and the forces run side by side together, they are friends; and if the forces meet head on or at an oblique, the stronger pushes the other back or sideways out of the way and goes on, dominating. And that was what happened as Joe stood there waiting, bucking the old man and backing him down, till the old man pulled his hand from his pocket and gave it to Joe.

Joe gripped it hard, but pleasantly. He explained that Terry and he had run into each other and he walked home with her. He said Terry had come to be a most welcomed visitor at the Murray home, that he was glad to return a visit, that he would take occasion to do the same often again.

And that old man stood there and listened, looking hateful and unwilling, and did not know what to say to Joe. When he got his hand back again, when Joe was ready to give it to him, he thrust it deep in the pocket. He merely grunted once again in reply to Joe. He looked at Terry, and with that he found his opening.

"Don't you go out again," he said sourly. "When your new beau goes, you come right back. You've got better things to do than entertaining company."

"Yes, grand-dad," she said.

JOE stayed in the Mallow parlor an hour. They sat at either end of the sofa, looking at one another. Joe asked questions, numberless questions, all about her and her life and her ways of thinking. In a hushed way she became gay and vivacious and talked at a great rate, her big eyes luminous and beautiful in the lamplight. You'd never think she had a worry in the world. In effect, she hadn't right then; she had put every other thing aside for the enjoyment of this hour. It is not everybody can do that. It is not everybody has had to learn how.

"You're a funny kid!" he told her when he thought it was better to go. "You stick it out. You'll come right side up. But stay away from Pappe's and Tommy Withers."

"You really want me to?" she asked.

because the city of Los Angeles had enacted a temporary law that all dogs within the city limits must be kept on leash. "I would rather listen to the damned meow larks," said Arthur, "than keep my bull pup tied up!"

And still another pet story: Joan Bennett's working in "The Texans" on the Paramount ranch, left her cookey spaniel in the care of her colored maid. A nondescript mutt appeared on the scene, growled, and the maid lifted the yipping spaniel to safety in her arms. "Go 'way you nasty thing!" she spat, then turned to the trembling pet. "Honey child," she cooed, "Ain't you all glad you lives in Beverly Hills?"

Speaking of pets reminds me of our distinguished dog-fancier, Arthur Treacher. Arthur, unlike most actors, does not like the country, finds more interest in the crowds on a city street than in the glories of nature and claims that he regards the roar of traffic as the most soothing of lullabies. But last week Arthur moved to a ranch in the San Fernando valley.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, June 7. — (UP) — A flurry of buying on the stock exchange greeted the victory of Senator Gillette in the Iowa primary and then the market leaped into bullishness again and prices rose into the early highs.

Gains at the top ranged from fractions to more than 2 points. In addition to the Iowa primary the market leaped into bullishness again and prices rose into the early highs.

On the adverse side were omens of tech. Mach. Trucks dividend and a statement by W. S. Farish, president of Standard Oil of New Jersey, that his company probably would show a decline of 20 to 35 per cent in net profit this year, as compared with last.

DRIVE CAREFULLY —SAVE A LIFE—

MACHINES ARE TOOLS

Politics probably is being saddled with more of the blame for unemployment these days than improved machinery, but you still find the machine—the non-political one—pictured as the giant snatcher of men's jobs, the monster bread-thief.

A peek at an 11-year survey just completed by the American Iron and Steel Institute is in order.

Technological advances in steel equipment have been directly responsible for a jump in employment in that field, the survey reports. The employment increase between 1926 and 1937 for four leading steel companies which adopted continuous rolling mills and other technological innovations was 28 per cent, or 5 per cent more than that of the steel industry as a whole.

The institute states that what these technological advances did was to make shorter working hours possible, accelerate production, improve the product's quality (and therefore increase the demand), and lower the price. All of which not only shot up employment, according to the survey, but the individual's earning capacity also.

It indicates, again, that a tool is simply an inanimate object which a man uses, and the man, not the tool, is to be held accountable for the ends to which it is used.

SAFETY MOVEMENT MOVES ON

A striking and unusual experiment in the interest of safety will be undertaken at New York university, beginning July 1. A national center of safety education will be established, under a special grant of funds from the National Conservation Bureau.

According to announcement, the new project, which is the first of its kind in this country, will provide a comprehensive program of information, instruction and research in matters connected with accident control. As part of the program, a maximum of 18 research fellowships in safety education, with stipends ranging from $400 to $1200 will be offered for graduate students enrolled in the School of Education during the 1938-39 academic year.

The motives underlying the new center were explained by the National Conservation Bureau, which pointed out that the stock casualty companies have been active since 1902 in the child safety education movement. It is now felt that a major part of the promotional phase of this movement has been completed and that the kind of aid required by educators has changed. Safety work is well established in the nation's schools, with the result that the primary need is for persons adequately trained to teach safe practices both to young people and teachers' colleges. And although the center has been planned principally for the education of teachers, the work will be conducted over a wider front in order to serve all types of personnel concerned with safe living.

This is a logical, necessary step in the evolution of the directed safety movement. It would seem inevitable that the work undertaken will be reflected in materially reduced accident tolls in the future. The child who is taught proper safety procedure by a qualified instructor becomes a safe-living adult.

THE DRAWN OUT WAR

The wars in Spain, China and elsewhere make dreary and heart-breaking reading, but they have performed one light and refreshing service. They have shown, once again, that military big-wigs and self-elected authorities on strategy don't really know what they are talking about.

Not long after the World war these gentlemen began to sing a new song—or, more precisely, a new verse to a very old song. They assured us that there never would be another long drawn-out war like the one which began in 1914. The offense, they said, had become too powerful.

So we began to hear about the irresistible things which attacking armies would do hereafter.

First, there were airplanes. One quick swoop of huge fleets of them and it would be all over.

Then there were tanks. There just wouldn't be any stopping them.

Lastly, there were the infantry attacks. Mechanized armies would move swiftly, striking with the speed and force of thunderbolts.

All this was solemnly promised a waiting world. And then the wars in Spain and China got underway and put the theorists to the test.

So what happened? So the tragic, costly story of the World war was repeated all over again. There were new weapons, to be sure and new tactics, but the irresistible offensives somehow failed to develop, and the long agony of Madrid stands as living proof that siege warfare today is just about what it was 20 years ago.

It just happens that the belligerent nations are precisely the ones that could not stand long wars. They wouldn't mind fighting, but they'd have to wind up things in a hurry, for they haven't got what it takes to go on fighting year after year. And because it is becoming more and more obvious that any war is likely to be a long one, the world's chance of dodging another war is measurably brighter.

If it were possible to win wars quickly and get them over with, the world's peace would be much less secure.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Several of Mr. Roosevelt's most widely known economic advisers are talking about quitting. They do not like the way things are going.

There is nothing like a concerted movement or rebellion among them. Nor is there likely to be a public demonstration of their disapproval. They just seem to have reached individually their own respective conclusions that their effort here are futile and that they might just as well pack up their views and go home. They are indicating more or less openly to those whom they trust that they will find the first good excuse to slip out quietly.

The president's tax bill statement seems to have irked them most. The Oliphant-Cohen-Corcoran school is supposed to have advised him on that one. Coming on top of the anti-monopoly message, dictated by the Thurman Arnold-Bob Jackson school, it seemed to constitute a new philosophy for a new, new deal, which left practically all the other advisers out in the cold.

This new, new, new deal, as the dissatisfied ones view it, will be founded on spending-lending plus continued agitation against business. They believe this will, or already has, restored Mr. R.'s political leadership, but it has not and can not restore his economic leadership. They think it will be successful politically, but not economically; it will win elections, but not restore business.

Their discarded recommendation was to stop sticking pins into business and by various means to encourage the hope for profits in business (rail-help, housing, utilities peace, etc.). Their battle cry is you cannot run a profits system without profits, and that all anti-monopoly, auto-sales and other reforms will not even accomplish the purposes for which they are designed, unless profit prospects are first revived.

It is not possible to name names, yet, but a facetious was broadly summed up the inside situation recently by saying:

"If things keep on as they are going, it will probably be safe to say Mr. R. will be left with Corcoran, Arnold, Roper and Jimmy."

A big free and full economic discussion which got down to the tip of brass tacks was staged by the federal reserve board crowd a few days ago. The occasion was a speech by Prof. Gunnar Myrdal, a Swedish state senator, boardman of the Swedish central bank. It was an executive session of FRB, but some outside officials were invited, including some members of the house and senate banking committee.

Myrdal's base plea was that it is up to the U. S. to save the world from another economic catastrophe, not by foreign loans or any international political maneuvering, but simply by setting its own economic house in order at once. He startled his hearers by saying the economic strength of other countries will become exhausted very soon. He thought the people here were misled as to existing conditions, solely because our banking structure is liquid and strong this time. "Your banks are so full of money that you might be tempted to use your strength to prolong the situation at our expense," he said. "In that case, the U. S. will be saddled with international collapse from which no one will soon recover."

In questioning at the end, Myrdal made several points which seemed significant as an outsider's objective viewpoint. That industry and government have so little confidence in each other, that the U. S. has too many banks, and that "it is clear to me one of your greatest aspirations should be to combat the fear psychology that is rampant."

Much sub-rosa inflation talk is going around, but Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's statements have generally exposed the lack of foundation for it. Some fears have been expressed that administration sponsorship lies hidden behind the new Logan bill and the new activity is agitating the money question. (Mr. Roosevelt is supposed to make a speech for Thomas in Oklahoma this summer.)

However, downtown top sources handling the money question, all deny it has even been remotely opened backstage. There, antagonism to the Logan bill is strong, on the ground that it is "just another cockeyed scheme" for raising prices by open market operations to put money into banks. The banks already have so much money they do not know what to do with it, yet it has had no effect whatever on prices so far. The need is not more money, but more demand for the money that is available.

You can probably depend on it that the president's last statement on prices several months ago was a statement to end all statements on prices.

Disquieting rumors are around concerning the trend this anti-monopoly investigation will take. Widest circulated is the one that it will start with steel, including the basic point system, then go into cement, then trade associations.

The truth is those who are sponsoring it (not the Hill sponsors, but those downtown who will control the inquiry) want to go first into that old familiar subject—"the concentration of wealth," not only corporate, but individual.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Forty Million Families Hit

By GUS W. DYER

Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University

Property rights are fundamental human rights. They were so regarded by the author of the Ten Commandments.

In giving the government only specific and limited powers, and in prohibiting the government from taking any citizen's property from him without adequate compensation, the founders of our government were confident that they had made the sanctity of property safe and secure under the Constitution.

The Supreme Court was ordained by the founders of our government to guard and protect property rights and all other fundamental human rights against all attempts of the government to destroy or limit or impair them.

From the beginning of our history as a nation down to a few years ago there was hardly a doubt in the minds of the American people with reference to the adequate and complete protection of the sanctity of property under the guardianship of the Supreme Court.

It was the unwavering faith of the rank and file of the American people in the Constitution and in the Supreme Court as its protector that inspired them to build the greatest industrial system of all time. The unshakable faith in the sanctity of property by the Constitution inspired the millions with small incomes to work, struggle, economize and save. As a result great savings institutions came into existence to meet the demands of the poor and those of small incomes who wanted to protect their independence and future security by saving and investing.

The achievement of the millions under the inspiration of Constitutional protection of the sanctity of property is far beyond anything ever known before or even regarded as possible in this life.

In 1930, $2,229,000,000 savings deposits were on deposit in the savings banks. In the same year 12,350,000 members of building and loan associations had assets of $8,829,000,000. In 1931, 121,760,000 life insurance policies were in force that had a face value of $108,885,000,000. The assets of the companies carrying these policies were $20,159,000,000. The total of the assets and savings belonging to the millions from all walks of life is $37,722,000,000.

If we add to this the estimated nine billion dollars in school endowments that belong to the millions of boys and girls of this and future generations, we have a grand total of $66,722,000,000. This is more than all the wealth of Germany and Italy combined in 1924. It is six billion dollars more than all the wealth of France and more than half the wealth of the British Empire in 1917. Every dollar of this huge sum invested contained 100 cents valued in gold. These were not 60 cents dollars whose value rests alone on faith.

The moral character developed through the hard struggles and sacrifices that were necessary in gaining this great wealth and all achievements in social security is of infinitely more value to general welfare than any material value can be.

It is the forty million families rather than the "60 million families" that are supplying the capital to operate American industries. The forty million families have five billion dollars invested in railroads alone.

Every attack on capital is an attack against this sacred fund. This fund will be assessed to meet the five billion dollar deficit; this fund will be assessed to pay the billions that the government is distributing in gifts. Has the government the authority under the interpretation of the Constitution by the Supreme Court to draw on this sacred fund at will for the purpose of making gifts to selected millions? Can the government do indirectly that which it is prohibited from doing directly? If so, they mean that the Constitution protects the sanctity of property is a pure myth. If this is true, the Chief Justice should explain this fact in language that the layman can understand to the millions who have been made victims of this delusion.

(Address questions to the author, care of this newspaper)

District of Columbia the incidence of positive tuberculin reactions among cattle has been reduced to about one-half of one per cent. When this work was first begun in 1915 on a large scale, the number of animals in a herd which would react positively to tuberculin was from five to 99 per cent.

Much has been learned about the differentiation of the types of tuberculosis. It has been found, for example, that the primary or first infection type of tuberculosis usually does not kill infants, and that those who escape tubercle bacilli through infancy and childhood do not necessarily develop a serious form of the disease if they become later infected.

Most of the studies that have been made of late indicate that tuberculosis is a communicable disease and must be treated accordingly. If patients with tuberculosis are considered as capable of spreading infection, and if the usual means are taken to prevent such a spread, a great deal of unnecessary tuberculosis will be eliminated.

By using magnesium alloys instead of steel in the landing wheels of the largest planes, about 150 pounds, the weight of the ordinary male passenger, can be saved.

General Hugh S.

JOHNSON SAYS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The St. Lawrence Seaway, or shipway or deep seaway has a lifting sound in whichever way it is spoken. Under the proposed treaty with Canada that the State Department has just prepared the Middle West is led to believe that it will get an ocean frontage. A vision is conjured of great ocean liners tying up at docks at Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee and all points west as far as Duluth. Cheaper freight rates for wheat and all the products of our great "bread-basket" country to foreign ports is pure net gain for the farmer since the price is usually made abroad. Maybe an all-water passenger service to the seven seas will appear.

Thus pretty general Midwestern support is being ballyhooed into support for what is in fact largely a local New York State power project. That part of the cost of this development which is necessary for power and would not be necessary for navigation will prove to be easily two-thirds of a total staggering cost. That would not be so bad if the cost for navigation for deep draft vessels would buy anything worth the money. The great canal builder Joethals and other experts thought it would not.

There are many reasons for this conclusion. One is the slow speed imposed on vessels of powerful propellers in canals and canalized waterways. That, plus the magnificent distances and delays and difficulties of passing locks makes the probable cost of either freight or passenger operation prohibitive in competition with other forms of transportation.

Existing facilities for the transportation of the principal cargoes both up and down the lake are the finest and most economical in the world. The down-lake rate for wheat is very low. It seems impossible that any ocean-going shipping, even without all the handicaps just mentioned, could ever compete.

It is too much a matter of expert conjecture to say flatly that if that waterway is built, it will never float an ocean-going ship past Lake Erie but it is highly probable that this would prove true.

Legally, the Federal Government is not supposed to go into the manufacture of power, except as power is incidentally produced in its proper function of improving waters for navigation. That principle is developing a pious and very costly fraud—fake navigation projects to permit the generation of power. There is something of that in this proposed St. Lawrence Shipway and that plus the attraction of the fake for the Middle West, gives the whole project a phony sort of support without which it probably could not stand.

Canada doesn't want this white elephant for many of the reasons here stated and because she has an excess of power. Yet, it needs Canadian consent, and so we now propose to pay all its tremendous costs in the first years of construction and also to give them more water at Niagara Falls where they have more than their share already.

It is true that some of the assertions here are engineering opinions. But it is also true that this subject has not been sufficiently aired for the public to make a judgment. Since the cost of it is almost sure to run above half a billion dollars, it certainly ought not to be bum's-rushed through as the abortive Quoddy and the Florida Ship Canal were started. If we ratify that treaty we are obligated to spend a large treasure on what may prove another magnificent folly.

The country is criss-crossed with costly and useless water developments which could have been prevented by proper public knowledge of the facts.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Hoiles

IS SOCIAL SECURITY POSSIBLE WITH DEMOCRACY?

A preacher made the statement the other day in the pulpit that democracy was not possible without social security.

Whether this is true or not, would depend entirely upon what the preacher meant by "social security." So often people with the best intent in the world, who actually are trying to benefit mankind, make general statements without explaining specifically what they mean and instead of benefitting society as a whole, it does society an infinite amount of harm.

In this case, if social security means that the government must assume the responsibility of securing a man to such an extent that he can support a family and children, whether he produces the wealth to do it or not, then social security, instead of preserving democracy certainly will destroy democracy. It always has, in the past.

When this condition comes about, this group invariably votes itself so much of the wealth of the world that the great mass of workers become so discouraged that they soon want the minimum security rather than the fruits of their own work. This, then, makes the people as a whole so poor that they are willing to give up their liberty and consent to follow some leader who promises them more than they are getting under a democratic form of government.

On the other hand, if what is meant by "social security" is interpreted to mean, under a democracy, that we will allow no man, woman or child to starve who does the best he can and is willing to accept guidance if he is not able to support himself on a competitive basis, then this kind of security is necessary under a democratic form of government. This kind of security would mean that people who were obliged to receive help from the government, would be taken care of by the government in the most economical way possible to preserve their health. It would mean that the males and the females would be separated and would be required to do the work they could do to help support themselves and they would lose the management of their affairs and those of the government until such time as they believed they could support themselves. This kind of social security would greatly reduce the drain on those workers who were helping support them. It would also tend to keep people from asking for government assistance and cause them to make every possible effort to support themselves.

It is of the utmost importance that people come to understand what is meant by "social security," when the words are used.

Those who use the words most carelessly, when asked as to where the comforts of life should come from to guarantee social security, invariably have no answer. Or if they do, they would invariably take it from the wealth to be turned into tools of the world.

And by taking it from the wealth that would go into the tools of the world, they would, in reality, take it from the honest workers who are supporting themselves. This takes it from the workers because the retarding of new additional tools prevents the workers from producing more and, consequently, lowers their real earning power—their real wages.

So, guaranteeing "social security" is one of the most serious steps that any people can take. It cannot be done without doing a great injustice to the great middle class of honest workers, who are the backbone of the country.

For a quarter of a century, we have been trying to take from one group and give to another, until we find now the great middle class of people, as well as the business men, thoroughly discouraged as to their ability to improve, or even retain, their general well-being.

EQUAL PAY

Probably the primary cause of our present depression and lack of moral fortitude is the fact that people have not been receiving equal pay for service rendered.

Let it be remembered that pay includes more than material reward. It includes respect and appreciation.

And we should have equal pay for labor, for capital and for the entrepreneur.

This might seem socialistic, but when explained it is as far from socialism as night from day. What we mean by saying that people should have equal pay is that they should be rewarded equally per unit of service. It makes no difference whether a man receives $1 or $1000 per day if he is receiving the same rate per unit of service on a free and open market, he is being paid equally.

And the best way to approach equal pay for all is to have a free market for labor and for capital and to prevent, in so far as possible, all restrictions that tend to destroy a free market for man's energies. The laws and customs that have interfered with people receiving equal reward for equal service, has so discouraged and justly so, great numbers of people that they are now not producing the things they could produce.

Some wages are entirely too low and some wages are entirely too high. This condition can be corrected better by a free market than it can by laws passed by politicians who have the power to set their own pay. An open market will establish the material value of things. And that is liberty—that is democracy—and that is what we are losing!

POVERTY BILL NOT RECOVERY BILL

The politicians are constantly calling the $3,000,000,000 appropriation bill a recovery bill. It should be called a poverty bill because it, in reality, will eventually mean more and more poverty. It is destroying the tools that make it possible for people to be privately employed and to facilitate in adding to the wealth of the world. It is simply killing "the goose that laid the golden egg." It is a poverty bill and not a recovery bill.

"MAN IS INDOLENT"

As Thiers, the great French economist, says, "Man is indolent and for every kind of effort, there must be a different stimulus."
